Maur Hill is a private school. And because it is, the faculty has more basic influence than any other group. They select and mold the structure and the students from which a year will grow.

Maur Hill's faculty isn't perfect; they are only men and men can be weak, petty, over-indulgent, imperceptive or harsh. But teachers at Maur Hill are a notch above most. Beyond the personality and idiosyncrasies of the individual teacher, there is a dedication to both job and vocation: helping students to learn and grow and trying to impart a taste for learning and growth.

FACULTY

board of directors

Maur Hill's Board of Directors is made up of ten members who are connected with the school in some way. These people are dedicated to the betterment of the school and take steps to improve it in any way they can. The board raises funds to help support the school and at times is called on to help the faculty make academic decisions.

Fr. Edwin and Joe Carrigan listen to discussion at a board meeting.

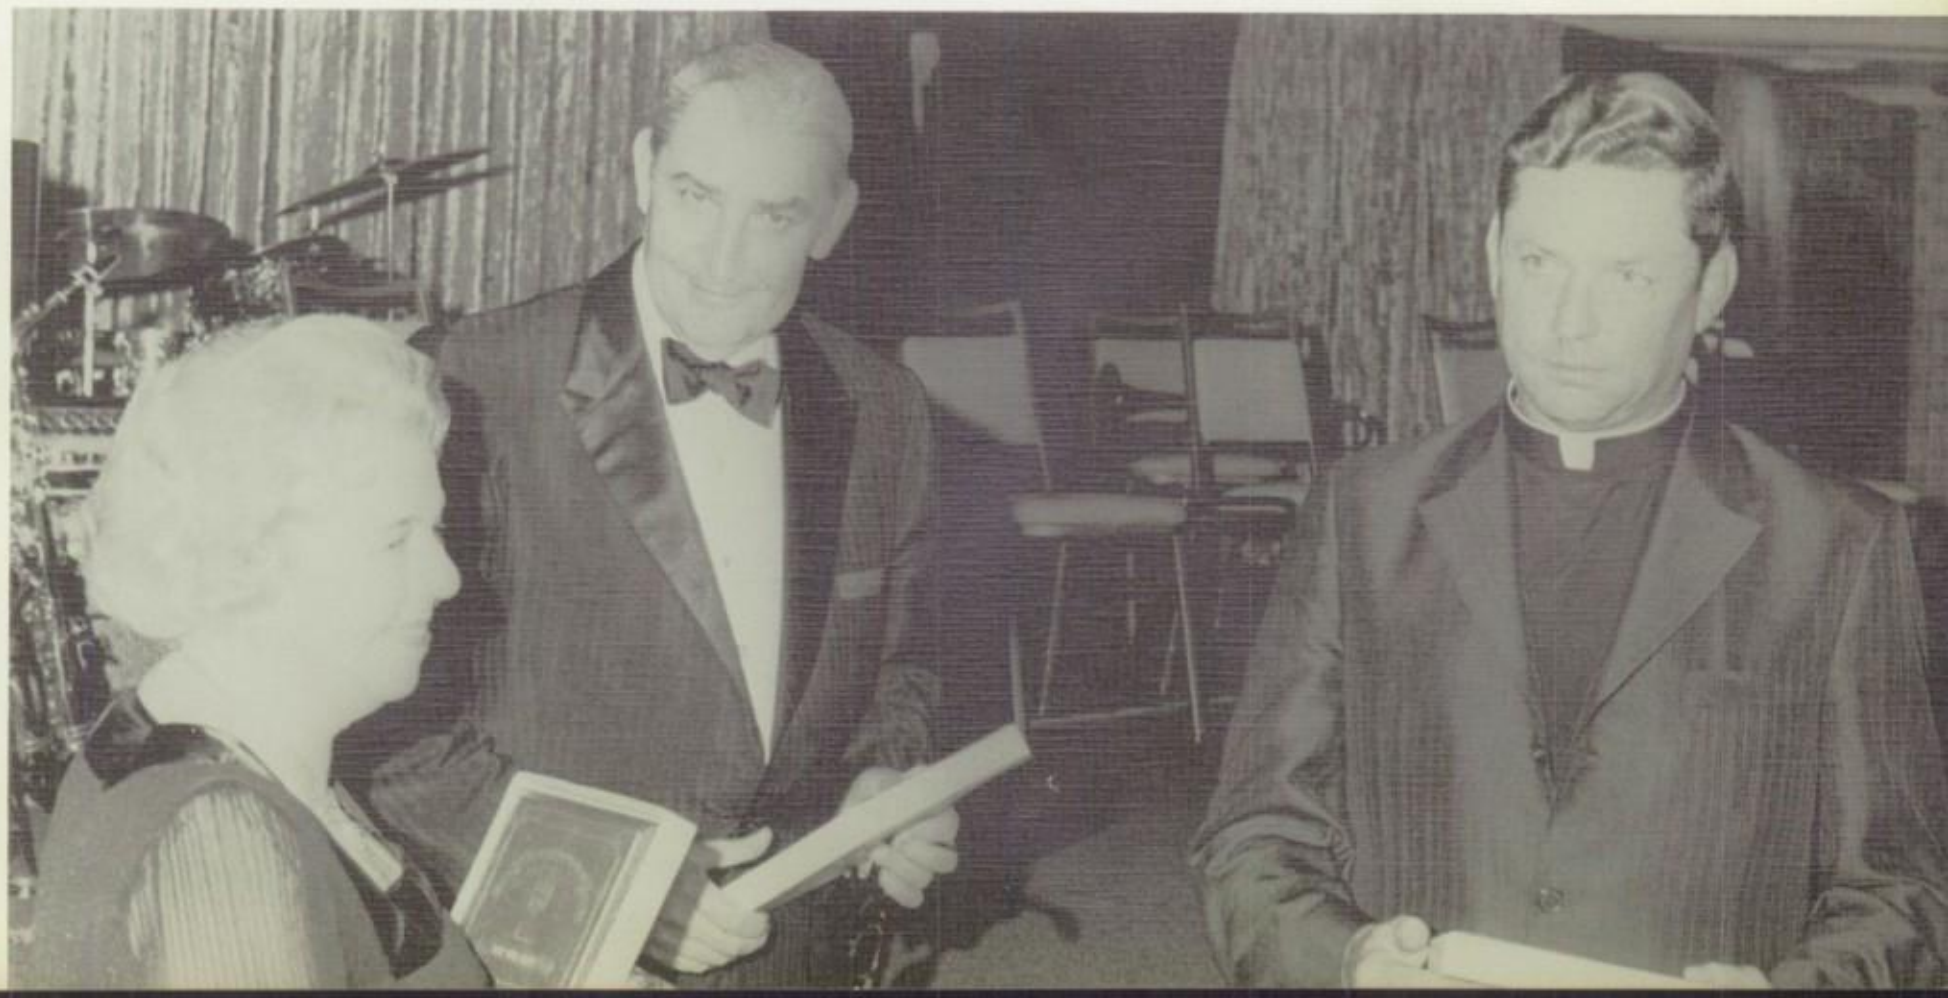
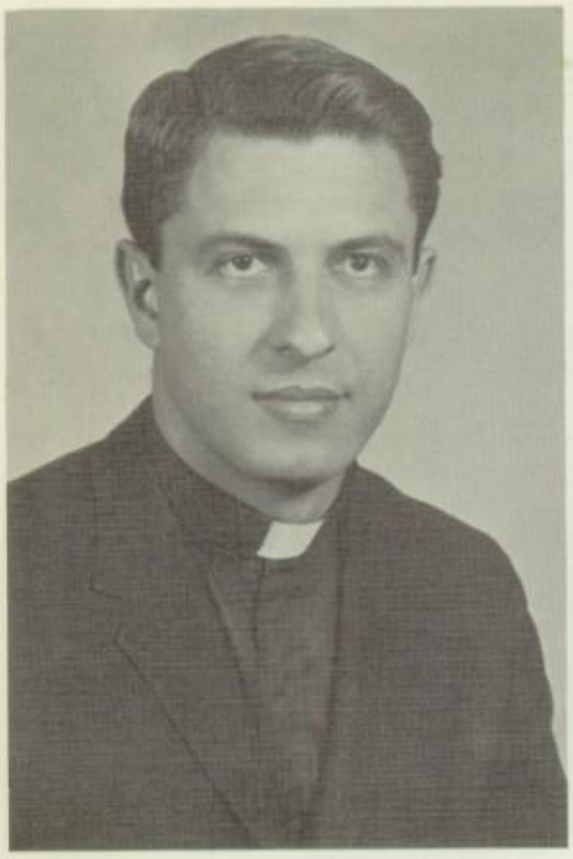
Mrs. Vera Candy and Vernon Pellouchoud graciously accept awards from Fr. Edwin.





Fr. Barnabas Senecal O.S.B.
Assistant Headmaster

Fr. Edwin Watson O.S.B.
Headmaster

Mr. Edward Stork
Academic Dean

administration

Fr. Edwin is for the Ravens.

The administration for the 1971-72 school year consisted of Fr. Edwin, as Headmaster; Fr. Barnabas, Assistant Headmaster and Mr. Stork, Academic Dean.

Fr. Edwin spent most of the year on the road attempting to raise money to pay for the new buildings on campus. For this reason, Fr. Edwin was only occasionally seen on campus, but he still managed to stay abreast of the activities at Maur Hill.

Fr. Edwin may not have been on campus much, but Fr. Barnabas was always around carrying out the never ending duties of an administrator which is anything from making executive decisions to solving every day problems of individual students. Fr. Barnabas also taught American History, which is a senior subject.

Mr. Stork carried out the jobs of an Academic Dean which required a professional to execute them correctly. Mr. Stork also spent time in the guidance department when he wasn't teaching his Psychology or Biology classes.

Because of these three men, the 1971-72 school year was one of great success!

Now hear this, 10th Hour. . .

No, I am Barnabas, but you were talking to Nicholas.

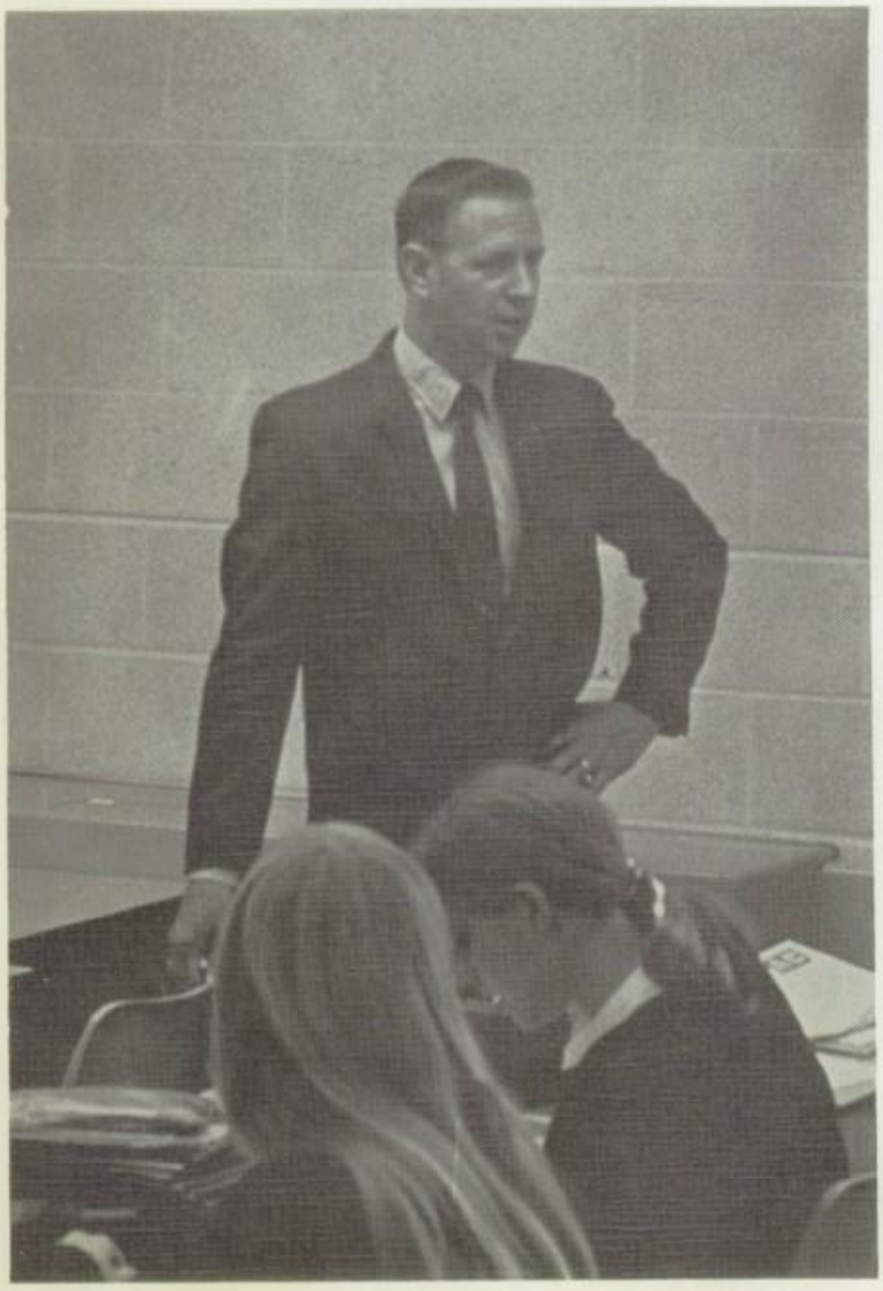
Chuck Lytton converses with Mr. Stork about recent developments in the audio-visual department.

Fr. Barnabas listens.

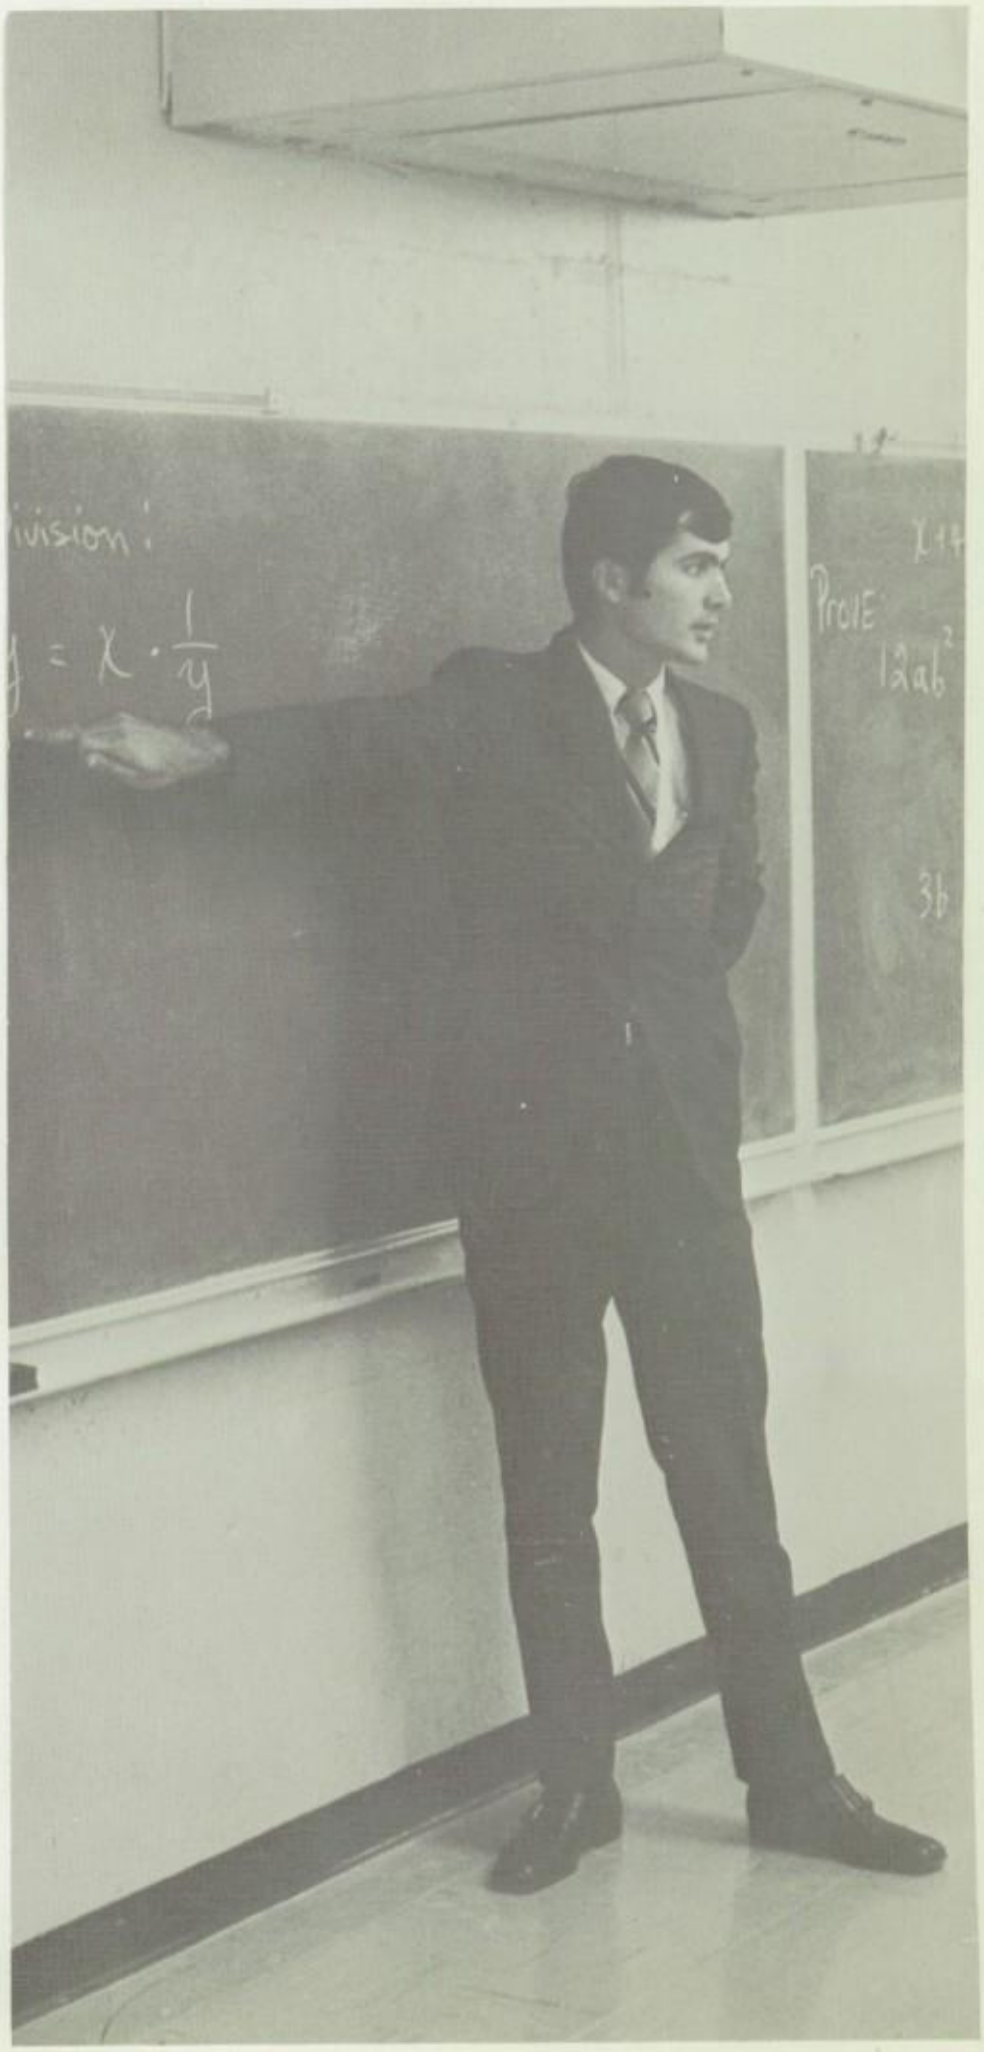
I never get lost because everyone tells me where to go.

Call Chuck if the overhead won't work, Father.

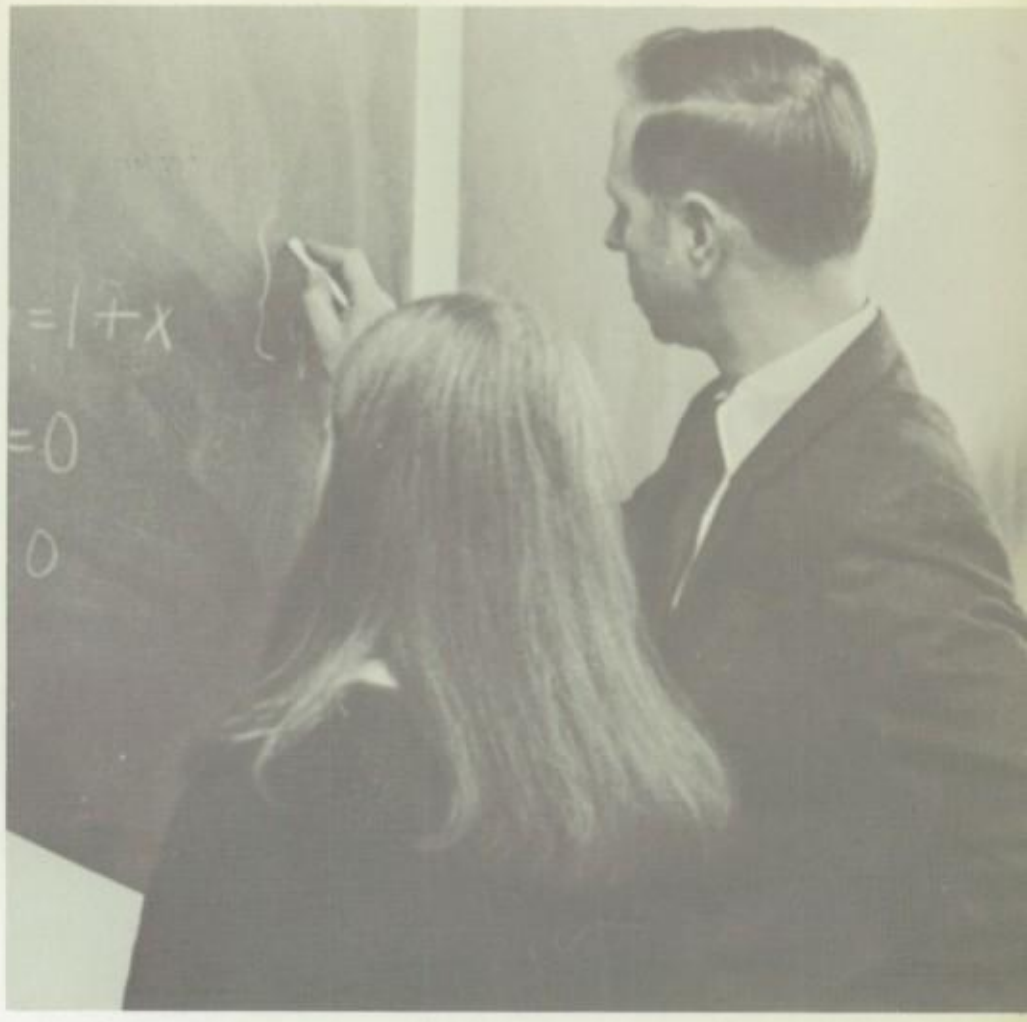
What do you mean you're late because you had to comb your hair?



The Dunphy Principal of Mathematics.



Wait a minute men, it's really like this. (Fr. Paul)



Mr. Andra shows why he likes coed classes.

Kool Kat: Fr. Gabriel

math department

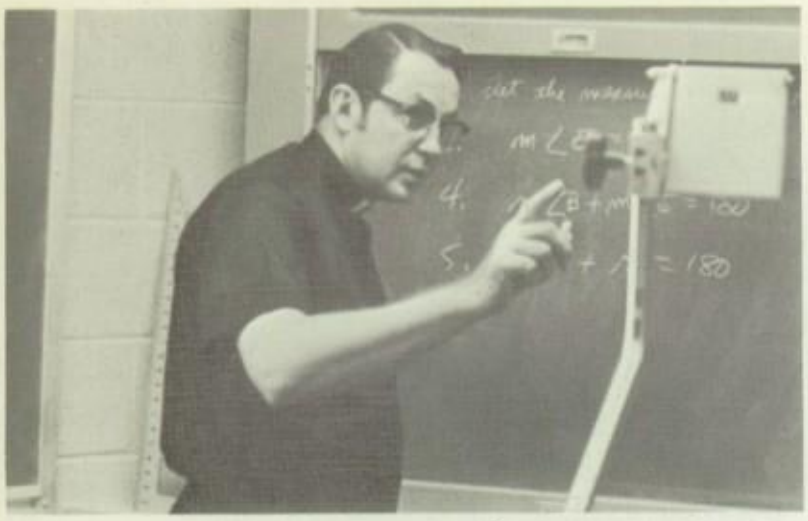
The mathematics department over the years has been continually progressing upward. The progress has not been stopped this year, but rather spurred on at an even faster rate. Tom Dunphy, newest addition to this department has filled the students with concepts of Algebra and Geometry. Father Paul Steingreaber again explained the workings of his two Algebra classes. Father Gabriel Eckert taught two classes of sophomore Geometry. Richard Andra once again carried the load, being head of this department. He instructed the classes of Analysis, Business Math, and both Advanced Algebra classes.



Father Gabriel scolds the overhead projector.

science

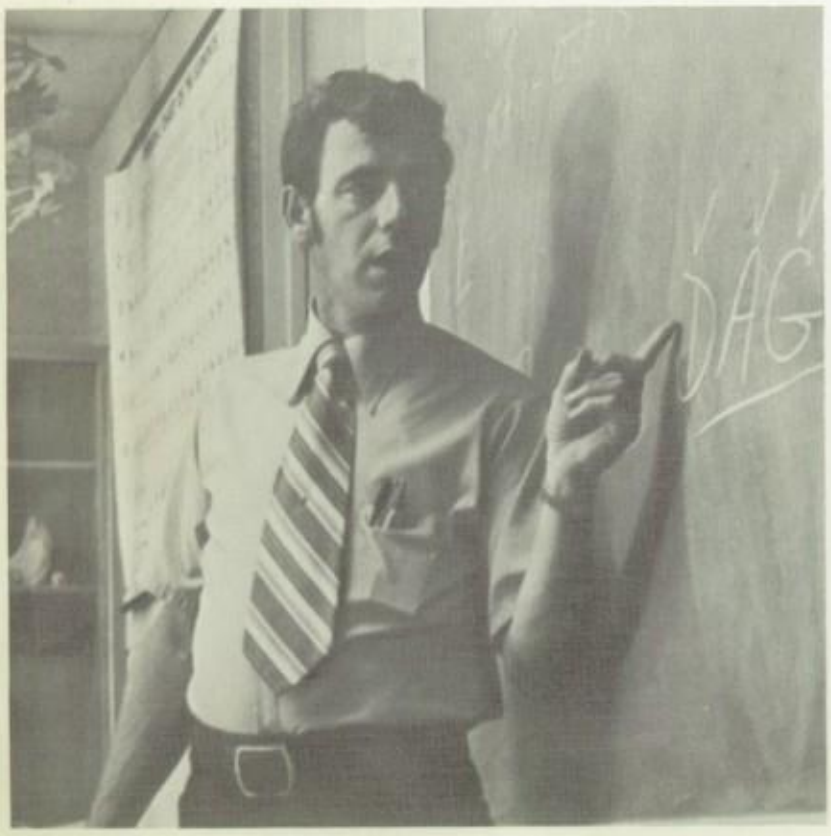
Father Bruce invents a new type of tic-tac-toe.

The modular system carried over from last year proved to be of tremendous value in the science department.

For the first time co-eds enrolled in Fr. Gabriel Eckart's two physics courses and Fr. Bruce Swift's two chemistry classes.

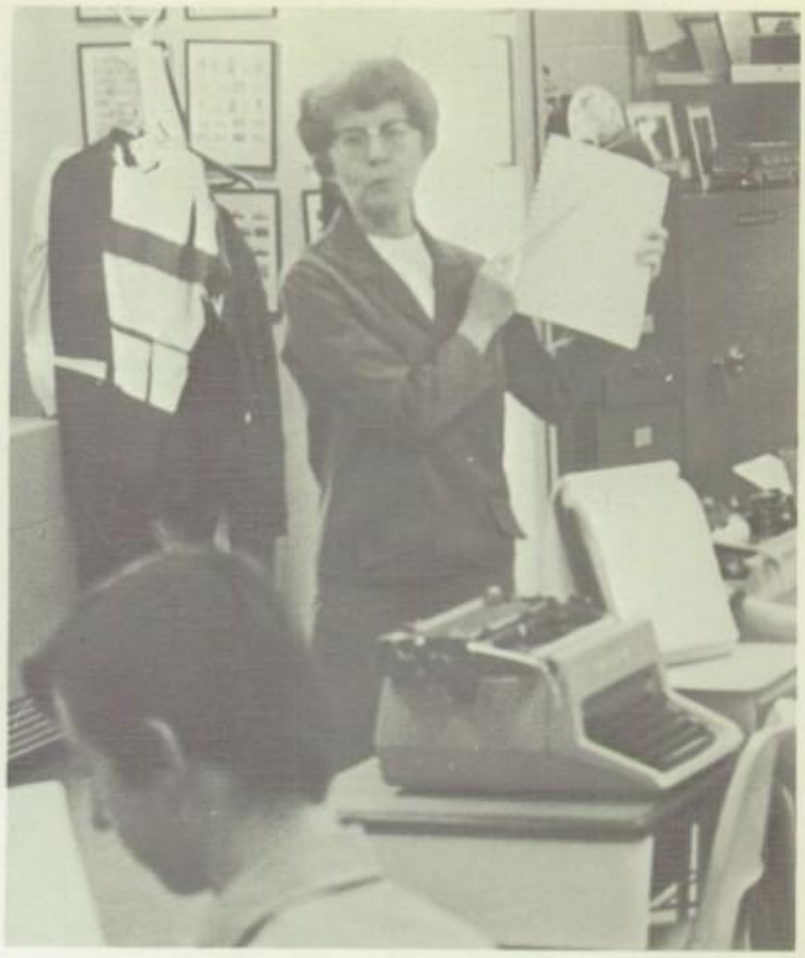
Again Larry Smith held down all three physical science courses as well as two biology classes. Guy Galley taught physical and mental health and Ed Stork found time to teach biology and psychology.



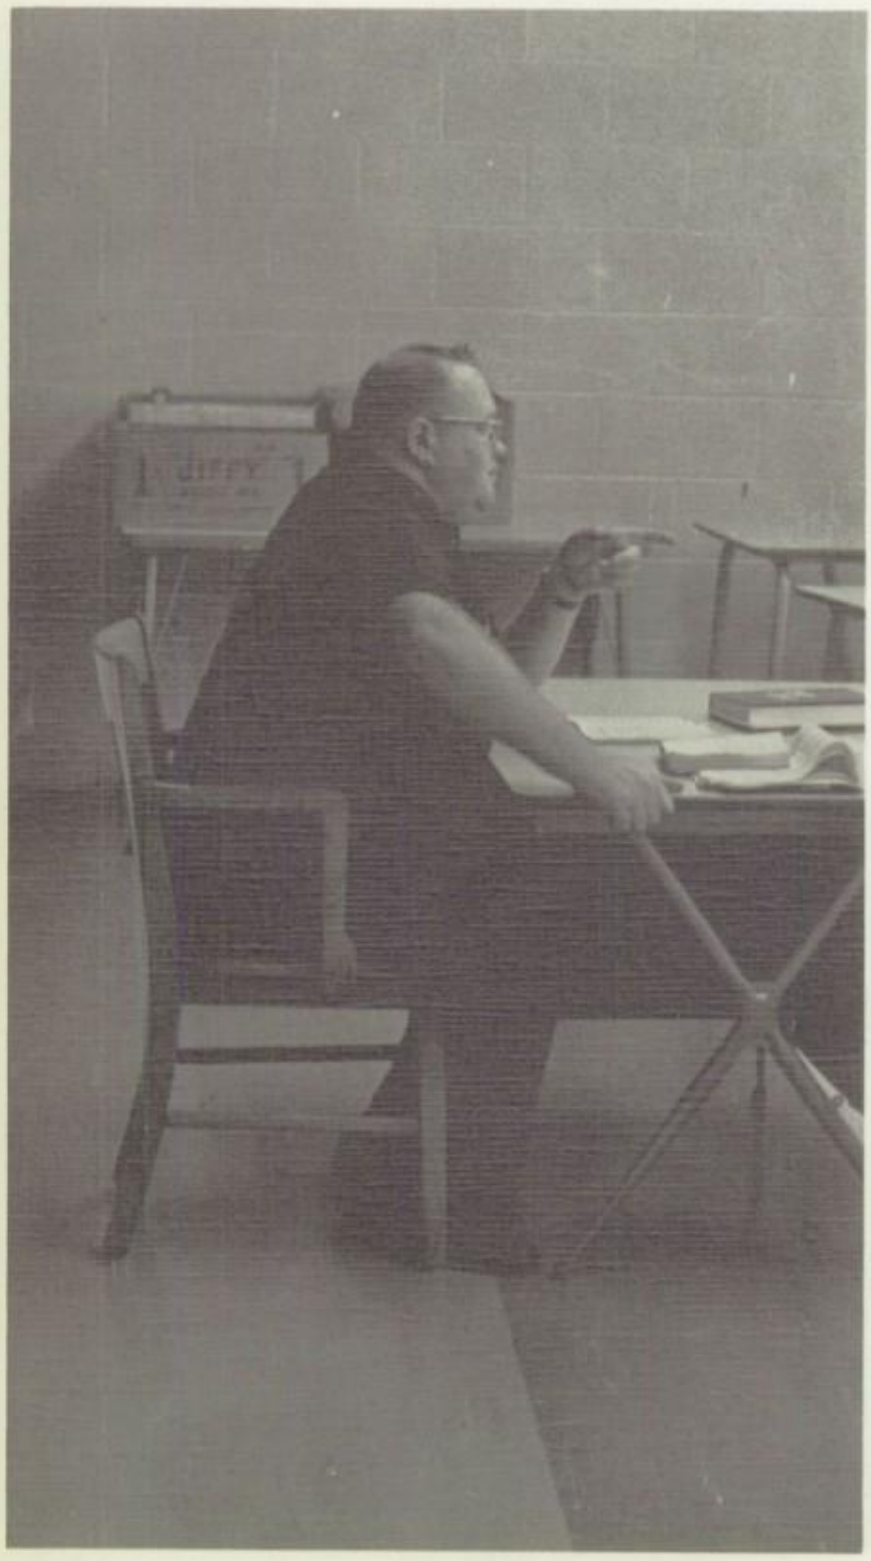
Mr. Stork helps the psychology class improve their vocabulary.

Mr. Smith points out important items to his biology class

Tatler workers hurry to meet deadline.



Sr. DePorres aids the foreign students in finding the keys.



Fr. Roger sets down the rules in bookkeeping.

business

To say that the business department is Fr. Roger Rumery would be an understatement. In the classroom Father Roger taught both journalism courses, bookkeeping and shared typing classes with Sr. DePorres Sissler. Father also distinguished himself as moderator of both the Tatler and Maurite, he continued as alumni director, and to round out his day Fr. Roger was again elected president of the Atchison County Historical Society.

english

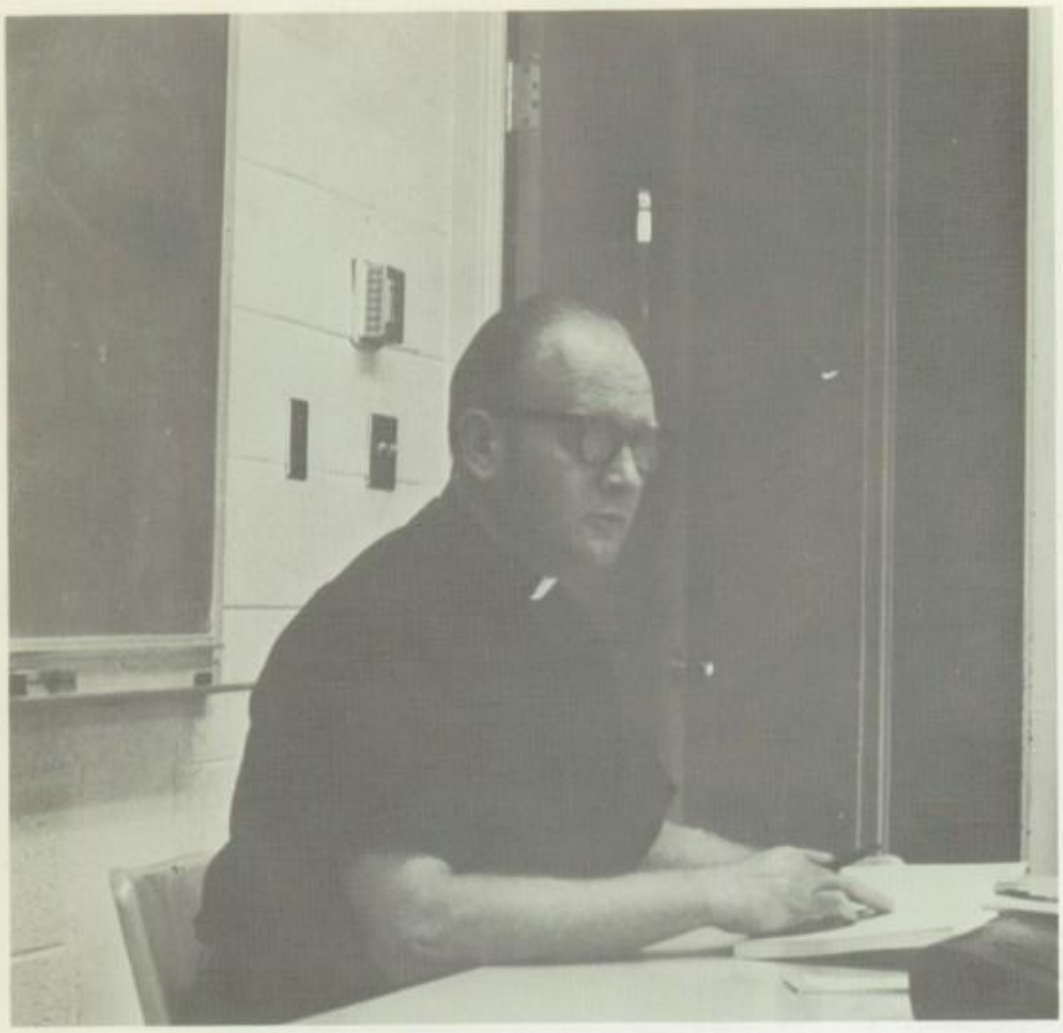
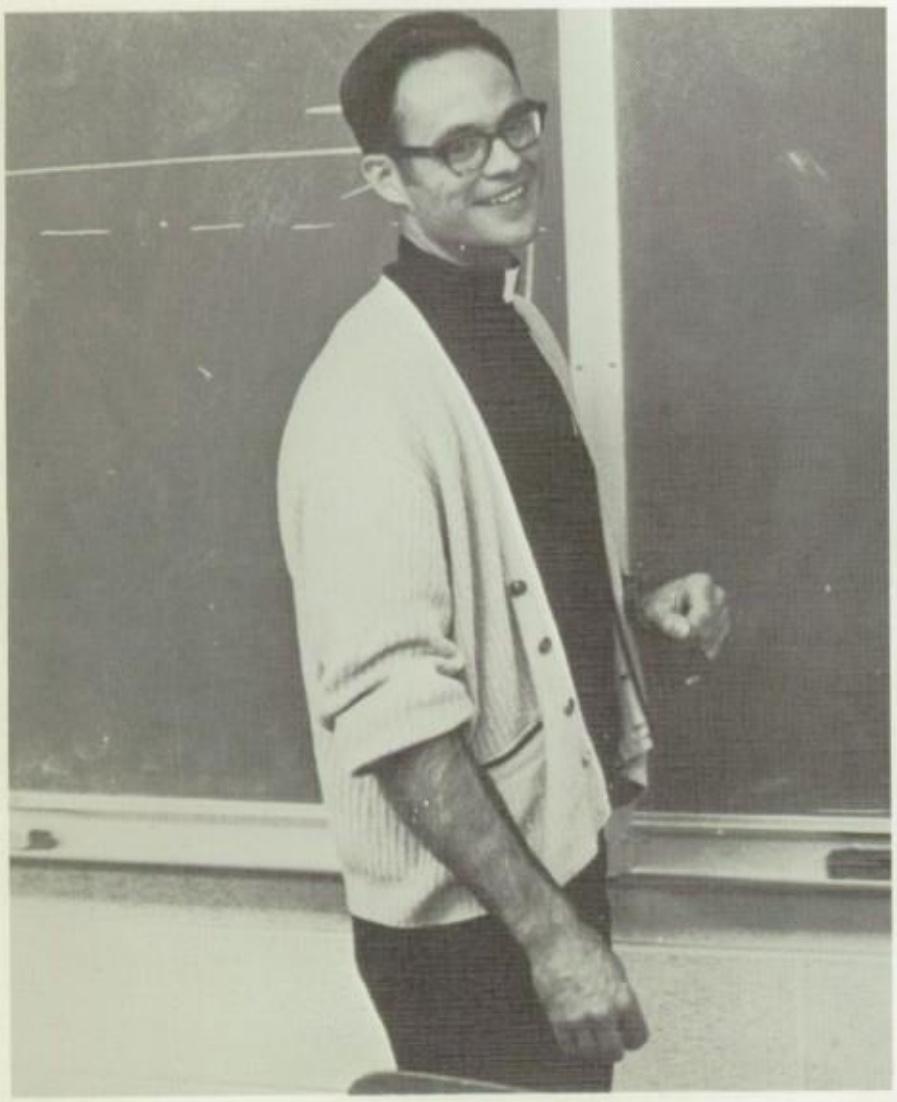
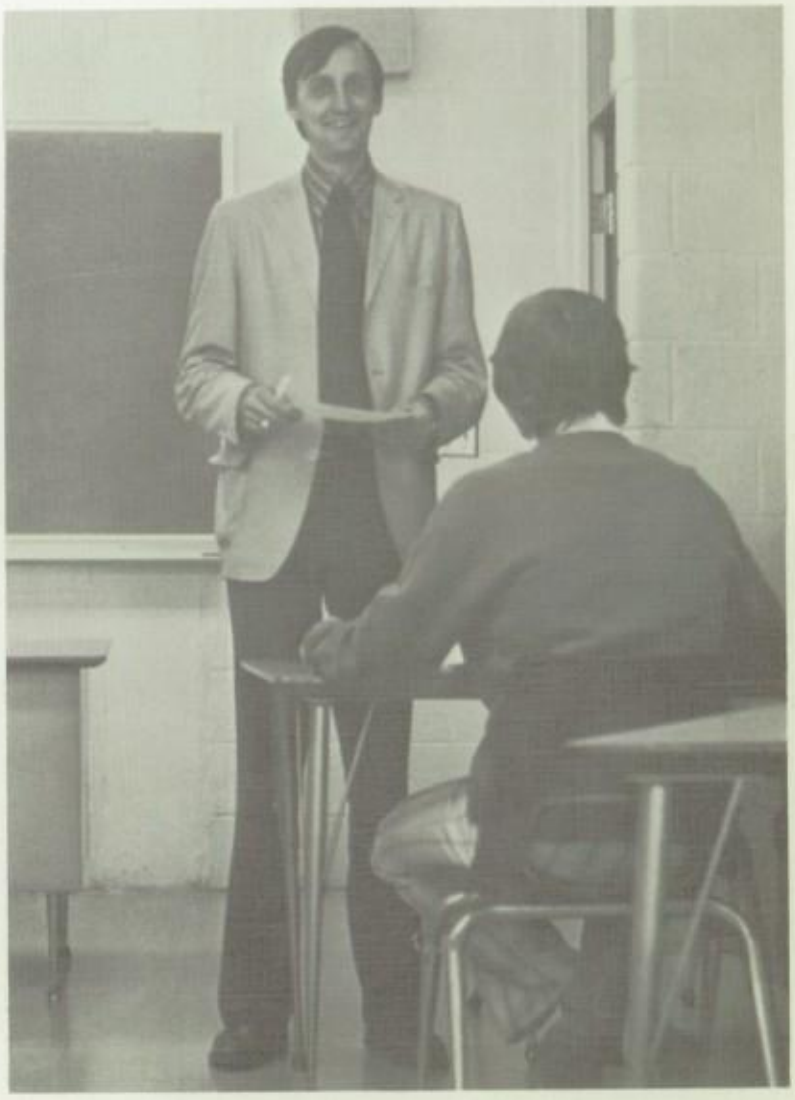
The English Department was kept quite busy this year. Mr. Ramsay took on another new adventure by starting a Debate class. He also taught Speech and English classes. Miss Palumbo spends most of her time teaching the foreign students. Fr. Thomas takes a break by teaching Senior English classes. Fr. Benedict finds time from karate to teach his Freshmen English classes.



Erns, you didn't, did you??? (Fr. Thomas)



The happiest moment of his life! (Fr. Benedict)



Mr. Ramsay gladly hands back another semester exam! (Milan Keseg ?!)

language

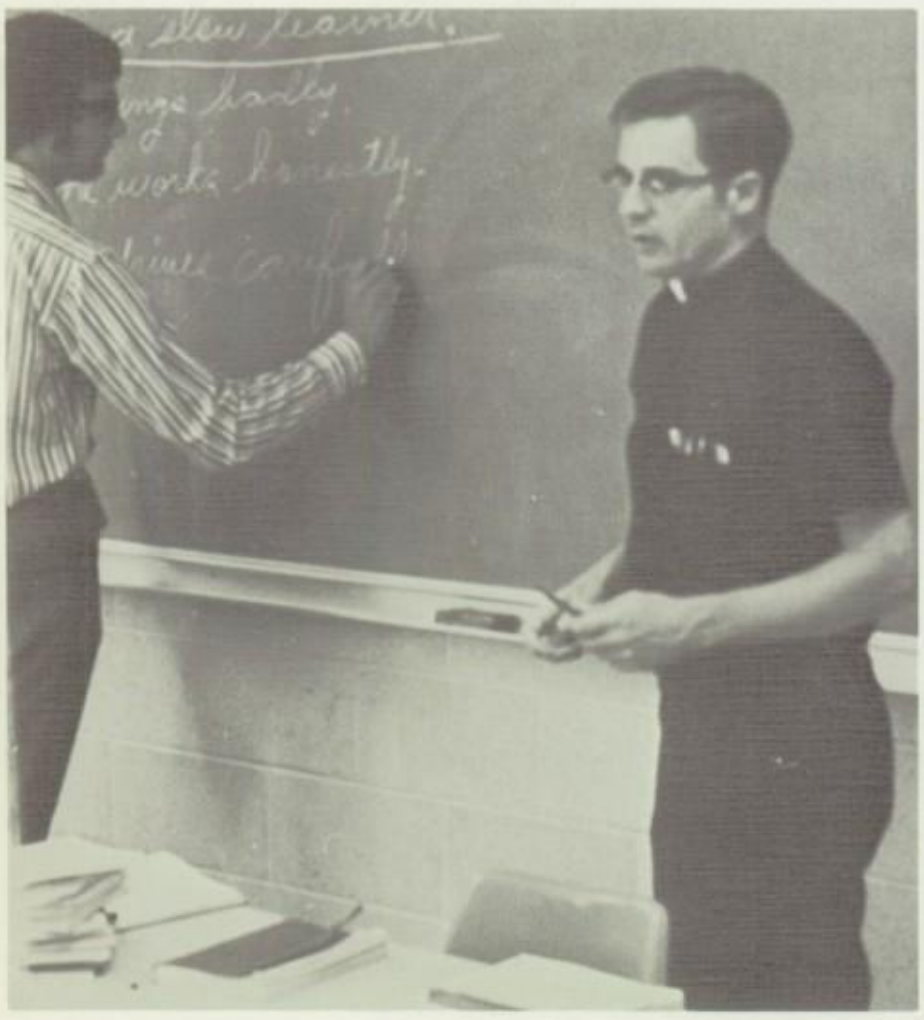
Fathers Owen, Martin, and Bruce with Miss Palumbo returned this year to teach Latin, Spanish, and French.

Father Owen still holds down the classics (Latin) while Father Bruce slides by teaching French.

Father Martin Taylor, Dean of Foreign Students, heads the English as a Foreign Language department assisted by Miss Palumbo. Father Martin also teaches Spanish class.

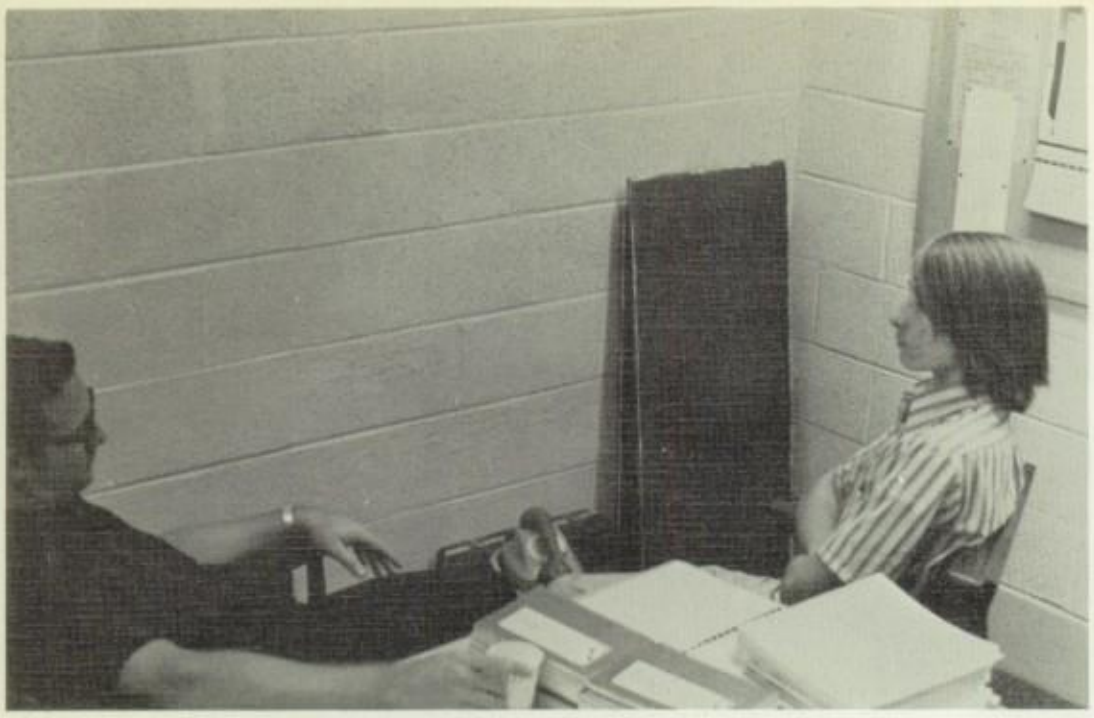
"Now repeat after me. . .(poo!)

What's he hiding behind that door? (Fr. Bruce)



What's next Father? (Henry Concha and Fr. Martin)

Fr. Owen doing his homework!



Thomas Mooney talking things over with Fr. Paul.

guidance

The Guidance department, headed by Fr. Paul and his associates Mr. Galley and Mr. Stork carry on to try to lead the students to a more successful life.

Fr. Paul takes care of Group Guidance and Cumulative Records, while Mr. Galley tends to the testing program and Mr. Stork attends to the Scholarship programs and college entrance exams.

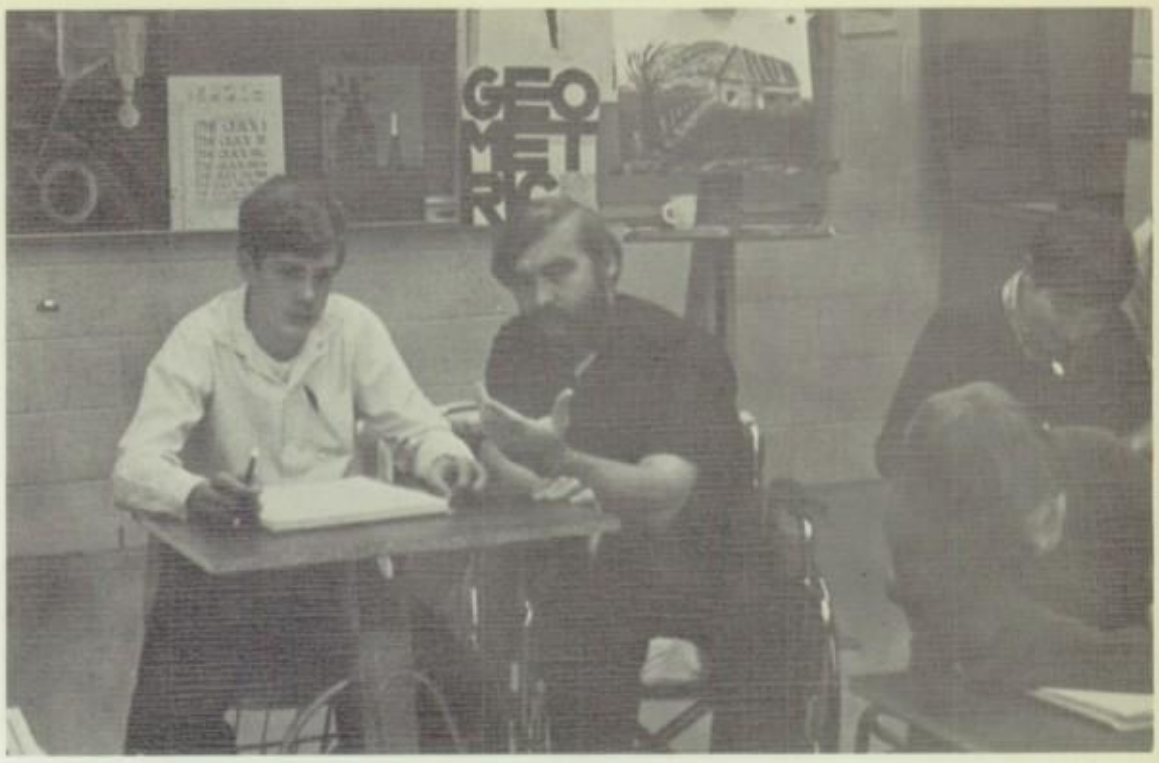
The Counseling office is open at all periods of the day to take care of counseling and guidance.

Mr. Stork gett'in it together over the phone.

Mr. Galley hard at work.

''What do you mean you don't know''

It don't come easy.



Fr. Luke helps explain the finer points of art.

art department

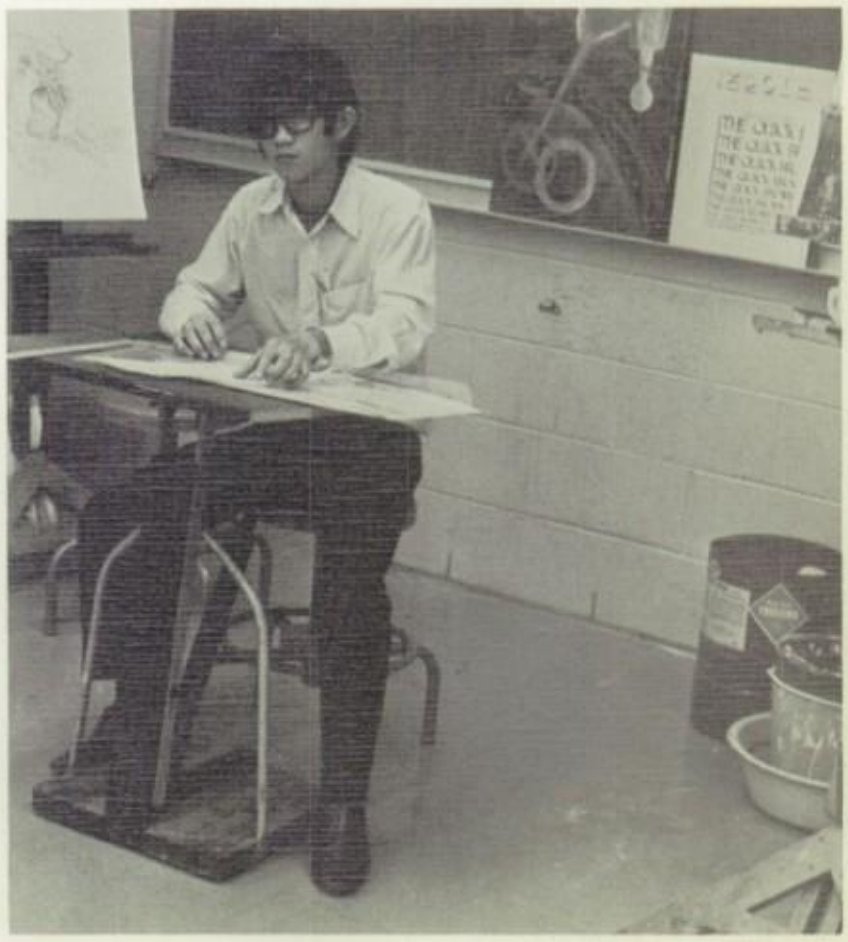
The Art Department headed by Fr. Luke Wenzel is teaching Art I, II, III which are basic fundamentals in Art.

Throughout the year young talented artist work with ceramics, woodworking, serigraphy, oils and acrylics, sculptoring and water color.

Fr. Luke assists his students patiently and encourages them to show their talent.

Lim studies the situation.



The finer points of art. (Miss Linda Fuse)

social studies

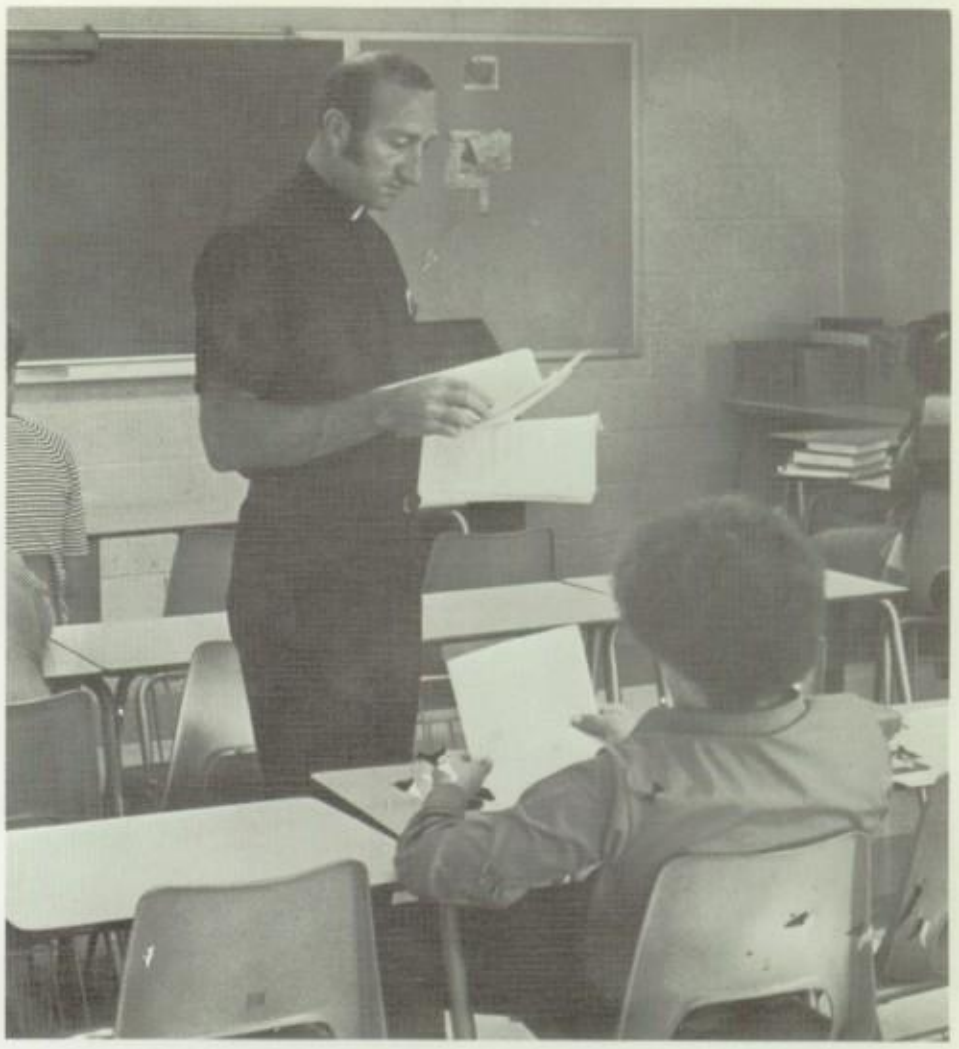
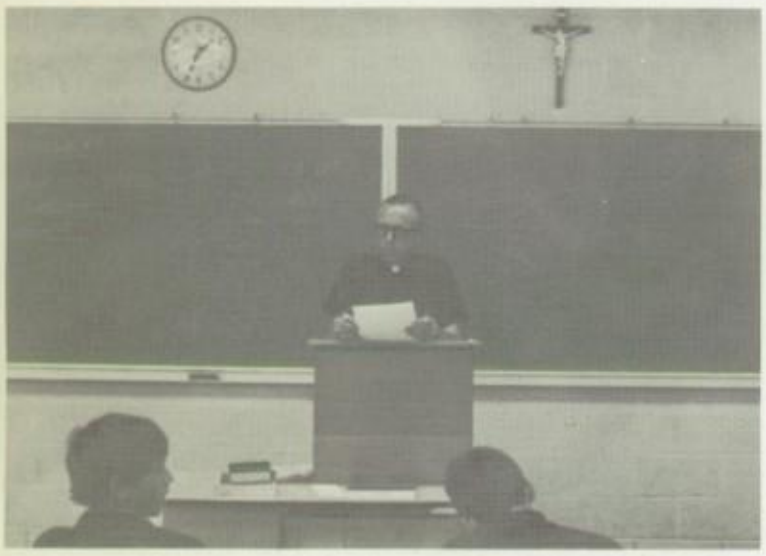
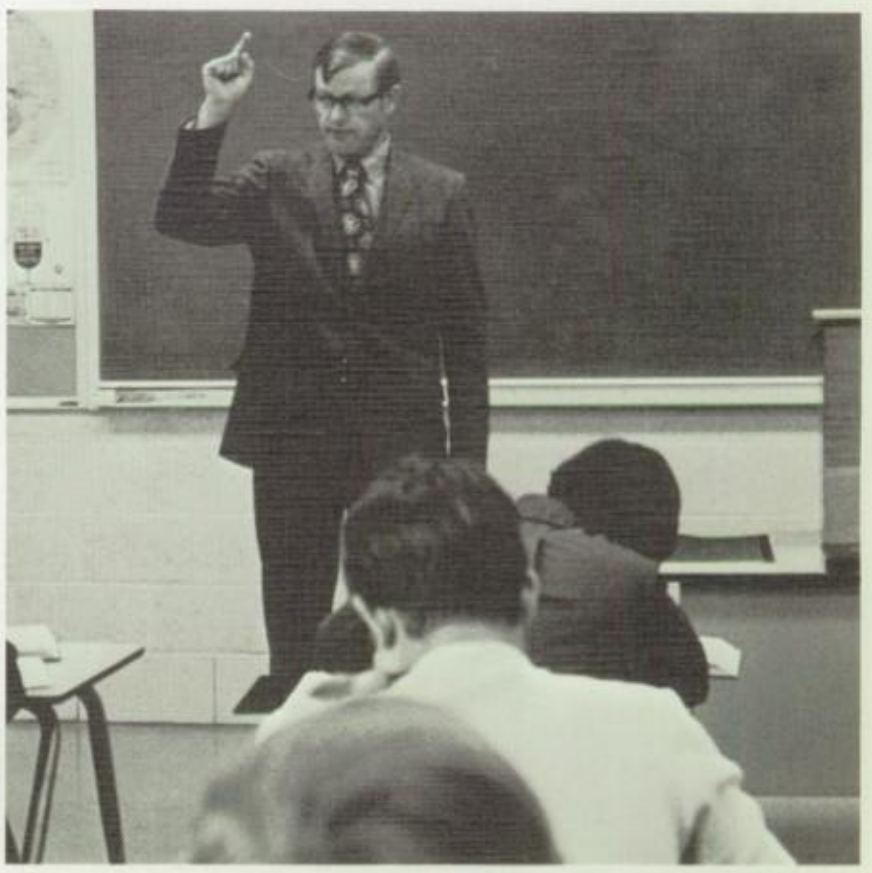
The social studies teachers again gave insights into why, how and when man's social environment changed. Father Camillus Wertz covered the past in world history and also some "ground" in geography. Jerry Brown and Father Barnabas Senecal gave the real story behind our "red, white and blue" in American history. In economics Mr. Brown explained how money is the backbone of history. Then to wrap it up, Brother Jude Highberger explained the strings of social life in sociology.

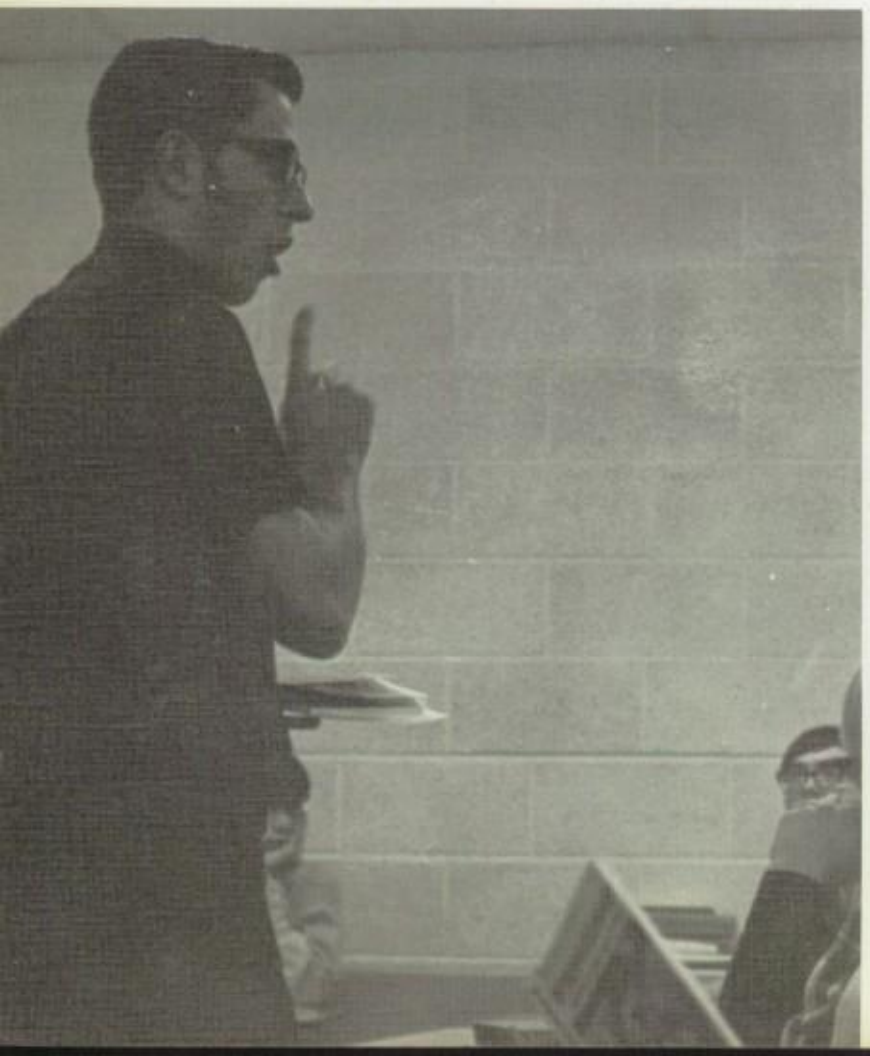


"It must be yours Kevin, their ain't no other paper with an 'F' on it. . .(Br. Jude and Kevin Fallon)

"Make that an F-." (Fr. Camillus)







"First of all, this is a dictatorship. . .(Mr. Brown)

"Alright, who shot the spitwad on my nose? (Fr. Barnabas)

chaplain

A door is open in welcome and you peek in and see a man bearing a friendly smile behind a desk. You come to him with your problems, what ever they may be, or maybe to just have a chat with the fellow.

This is our chaplain, Father Paul Steingraeber. He is the man whom you listen to on Sunday giving his talks on life and bringing Christ into the hearts of the faithful. This year, he made it possible to have co-ed classes. If you ever had a problem, Father Paul was always ready to listen.

"My book doesn't say that, Dennis! (Fr. Paul and Dennis Lutz and John Siebenmorgen)

Father Paul celebrates Mass.

"Now group, let's not get too excited!"

People who give tests and homework, and moderate clubs and study halls.

People who give up their free time to help us if we have a problem, or to just listen to a corny joke. . . . . .Their main concern is to help us shape our future.

Sister Anne Shepard, Sister Paula Howard, Sister Mary Grosdidier, and Sister Rosaria Schaefer discuss religion.

Miss Gonzales, Miss Ellis, and Miss Hurst take care of the language department at the Mount.

"It was the best of times and the worst of times."

This was a year of both frenzied activities and few and far between activities. A year in which there were many new activities, many supported by Stuco. Activities such as ping-pong & pool-outside dances with outside bands - and even stu-co sponsored movies.

All these were great but there came times, reflective times, where one saw little action. The weather was tense and there was little to do for diversion.

However there were other things to do if one would just look, things such as working as a volunteer in the Happy Hearts nursery school, as many seniors did at one time or another. Things such as class sponsored dances and parties.

Even the interaction between dorms provided some profitable and entertaining moments for all involved. Indeed it was a good year.

ACTIVITIES

The 1971-1972 Varsity cheerleaders are Bernadette Peltzer, Patricia Domann, Marcia Arensberg, head, Mary Jo Peehler, Aine McCarthy, and Janey Lykins.

The cheerleaders put everything they've got into everything.

cheerleaders 1971-1972

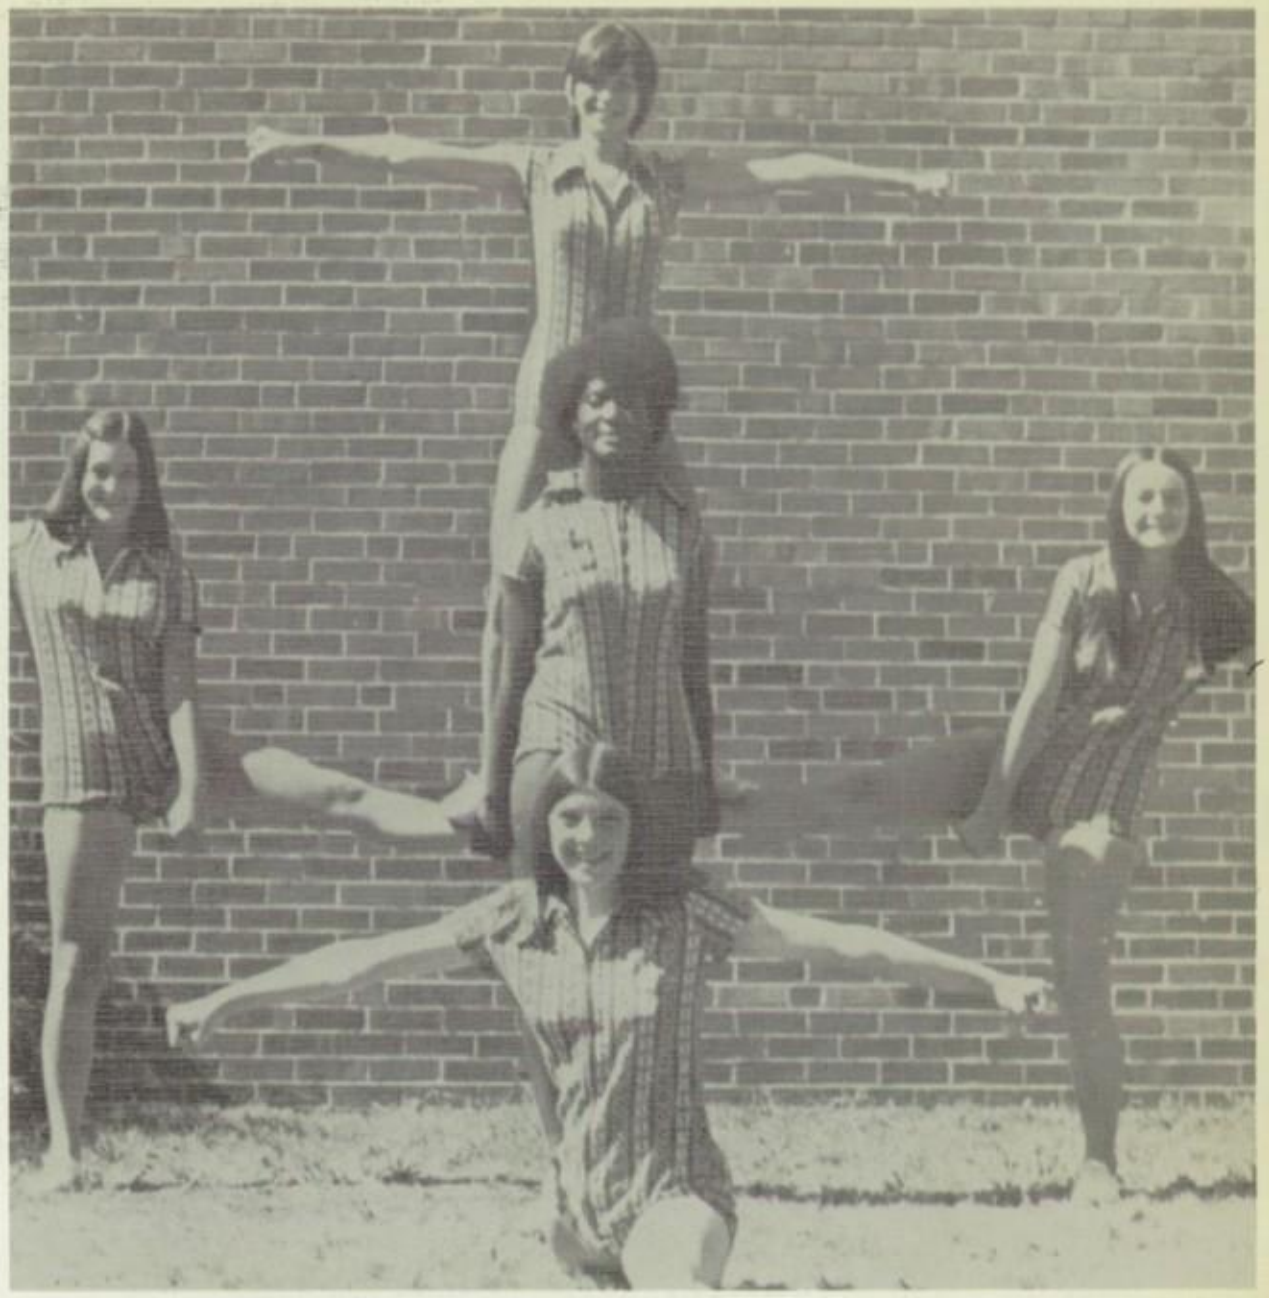
On the outside, the cheerleaders are all smiles and spirit. But inside they are all work and long hours of practice. The cheerleaders attended National Cheerleaders Association Clinic at Nowthwest Missouri State College in Marysville, Missouri. The Varsity squad won one Honorable Mention, three Excellents and one Superior. The Junior Varsity squad won two Honorable Mentions, two Outstandings, and one Superior.



The junior varsity cheerleaders are Lynn Jacobs, Sue Sames, Evelyn Jackson, Jayne Block, and Dee Vertin.

maurite

This year's Maurite staff was composed of students from both the Mount Academy and Maur Hill. Our staff had many ideas of what a yearbook should be and many of these ideas are formulated in this book.

Our moderator, Father Roger Rumery, showed the staff the fundamental rules for making a yearbook, then our creative staff proceeded to make this yearbook. We, the staff, sincerely hope you enjoy this yearbook for years to come.

We cannot see Tom Webber's work from the back.

the tatler

As almost always the Tatler runs into a few problems during the course of the year. Working these problems out with the help of Father Roger Rumery as moderator the Tatler had another successful year. Despite the problems it succeeded in producing several excellent articles during the course of the year.

mount views

The Mount Views, the Academy newspaper, is published by the newly formed journalism class. As in former years the paper was under the direction of Sister Theophane Reinecke.

Class meets 5 days a week and students spent many extra hours working on the success of the paper.

The Mount section of the yearbook was prepared by four members of the journalism class. These girls not only worked during class, but worked many hours outside of class time.

science club

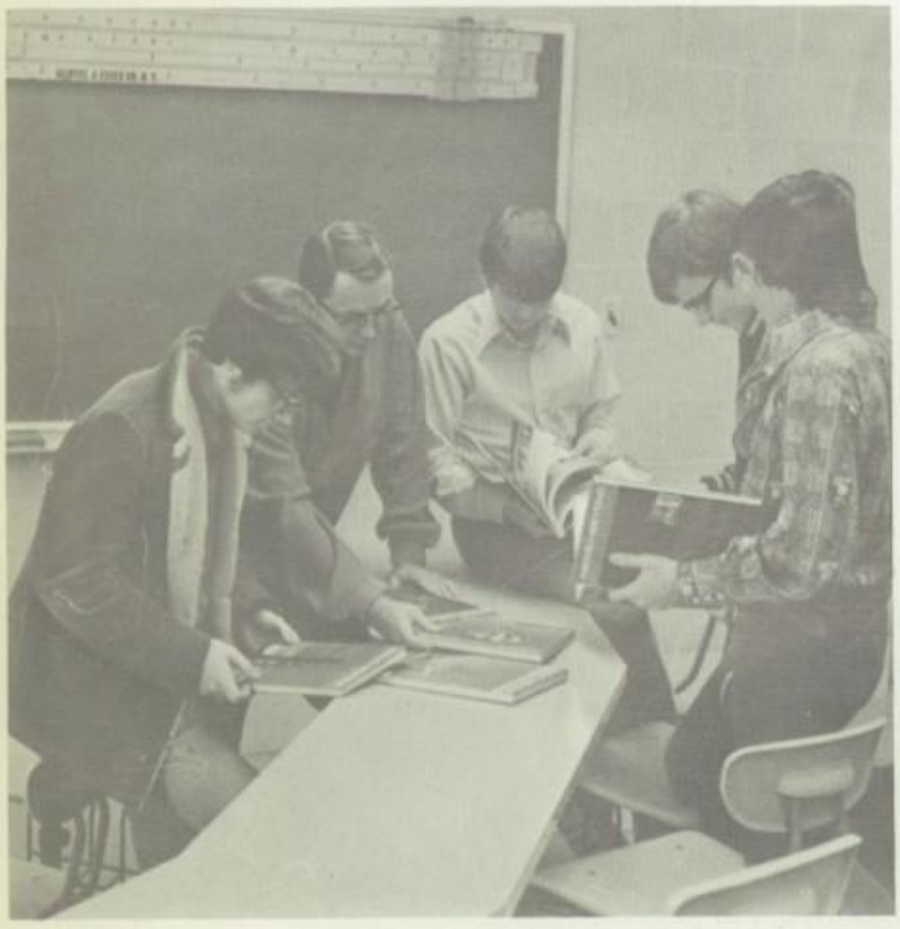
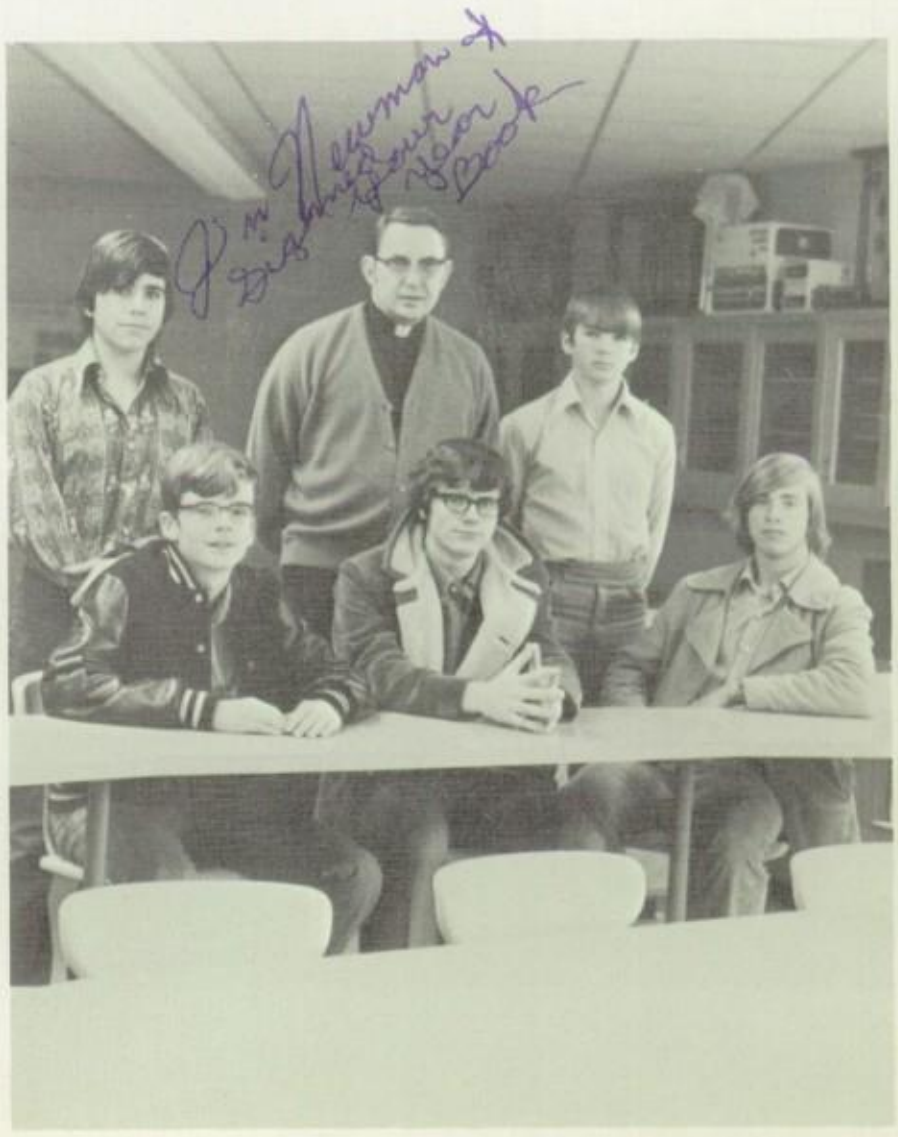
This year's Science Club starts off with a very small membership. Fr. Gabriel Eckart, moderator, said "the quality of the members is more important than the quantity. The club has two general topics of interest this year, astronomy and electronics." Activities of the club include a number of field trips and interviews with a number of educated men in the field of science.

President Larry Eker and Vice President Jeff Christ pose with their moderator Fr. Gabriel.

Members of the Science Club: Jim Newman, Douglas Gruba, Moderator Fr. Gabriel, Larry Eker, Kevin Downing, and Mark Sonnenmoser.



Members increase their vast knowledge of the universe.



Members of the M-Club participate in a bull session before the start of a regular scheduled meeting.

m-club

This year's M-Club not only kept up the good name, by promoting school spirit, but they made money, too. Two semi-formal dances were sponsored by the lettermen's club during the school year, and they sold spirit ribbons during the football season. Although few in number, compared to clubs of past years, this group has been industrious and worked with integrity. Hoping for more members, Maur Hill students who have earned a major letter in some sport or extracurricular activity, the club hoped to expand during the 1971-72 school year, but new members were few in number.

Officers: Secretary-Treasurer, Charles Carrigan; Stud Vice President, Jim Lykins; President Ray Wilburn; and Sergeant at arms, Rick Miles.

President Wilburn tells it like it is.

band

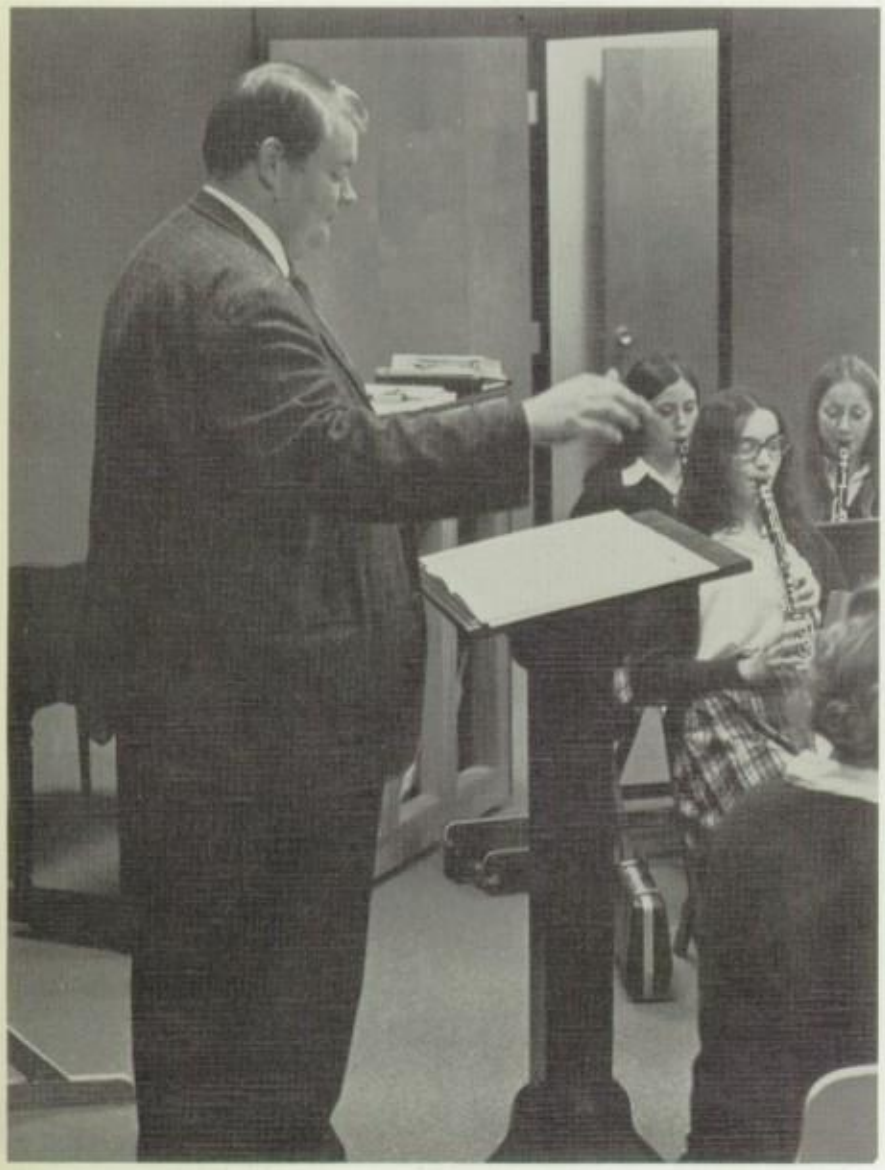
The combined band this year was under new direction. Mr. Don Webb took over the duties of Fr. Camillus Wurtz. Mr. Webb worked with the pep band which played at home football and basketball games. The band was the nucleus of most school activities. They came through to bring out the spirit when other means failed.



Mr. Webb reads his music.

glee club

Glee Club was also under the direction of Don Webb. Hard daily practice and some night rehearsals brought a well rewarding day at the Archdiocesan Music Festival. Although there were far more girls than boys, both managed to be blended in well. Winter Concert proved to be a night of enjoyment to the audience.

Lynn Thompson, Debbie Ramsal, and Karen Baade. Absent Mary Lou Snyder and Carol Goodin.

pep club

The sights and sounds of Pep Club have been everywhere this year. Black and Gold could be seen everywhere on certain days - in English class, in the chapel, even in the "little girl's room." Catchy little signs veiled the Maur Hill corridors. But most important of all, 130 beautiful, smiling, spirited faces followed the Maur Hill Ravens everywhere they went. They gave them the backing which is often times critically needed in winning a game. All in all, everyone will have to agree that life at the Mount and Maur Hill would be rather blah without corny signs, screams of victory and encouragement, black and gold, buses to enemy territory, cheerleaders, etc., from the Pep Club.

Co-chairmans of the Pep Club this year were Debi Stallbaumer and Barb Bracken.

Officers of G.A.A. are: Aine McCarthy, Beth O'Bryan, Evelyn Jackson.

sodality

Sodality with a membership of some 90 people tries to promote good will among its members and the community at large. This is illustrated by the annual Halloween party for the Happy Heart's children and the food baskets that are distributed to the poor in the area at Thanksgiving time. Sodality also sponsors a Living Rosary, and helps organize liturgical celebrations.

Officers of Sodality are Ann Huck, Shirley Schulte, Mary Ann Regan, Debbie Larkin, Terri Klaas, Mary Corpstein, and Joan Schulte.

maur hill student council

Stu-Co officers Sec-Treasurer, Bill Fanning; President John Merillat; and Vice-President Bernie Macan

The 1971-1972 Student Council proved to be the most productive in many years. By proper channeling of financial resources Stu-Co purchased a pool table and a ping-pong table, rented a juke box, and sponsored dances and other social events. The student body expressed itself as being proud and thankful for this productive organization of theirs. When time comes for the class of "73" to speak and act for the students we believe the example left behind will help unlimited possibilities for next year and years to come.

The Mount Student Council for the 1971-1972 school year was not the most productive in the Mount's history, nor was it the least productive. It was, however, an honest attempt at student government.

SENIORS

Being a senior does have certain privileges associated with it, but there also are the ever burdening duties that come with being the elder statesmen of the school.

Looking from without, the underclassmen see the glamour of what they feel to be an unending year of fun and frolic. To say this is not so would be an understatement of unbelievable degree. The old saying, "As the seniors go, so goes the school," seems to be quite true. As the leaders the seniors are the instigators of spirit or apathy. They are the people looked to in time of decision. Their leadership is constantly sought by both students and faculty alike. Being able to follow through with duties separates the true senior from the student who is a senior in name only. It is our belief that the class of '72 has followed through with these identifying characteristics and done so with a sense of pride.

Margie-
Although this year has been a competitive one between teachers, students, classes, it still has been great, because you can't do without competition.
For everyone the best is to see what is true, what is reality... that is what beauty is,.. remember to reach behind some lost souls and show your care and love to them,... if you don't live at your best each day; you really don't live.
Take care &
SMILE because that shows yourself to strangers. —

The Senior Class of '72 has continued the tradition of Maur Hill with honor and distinction.

They have helped the underclassmen throughout the variety of activities held during this past year. This year's Seniors were a class who worked together towards the improvement of the school.

The Seniors of '72 feel their spirit and maturity will be reflected in the work of the entire student body for years to come.

Finally after three years of being followers, the Class of '72 became the leaders of the school. With a spirited flair and a knowledge of what they wanted to achieve, this years seniors made their final year one to remember.

Never before had the Student Council been so active in student affairs. In both football and basketball the seniors led the way in establishing very successful seasons. Many seniors were awarded various All-Area and All-State honors. The debate team was made up entirely of seniors and they proved that even inexperience could not suppress their efforts. Perhaps, most important of all, the seniors had an intense desire to unite their class into a group bound together with pride.

Each senior had her failings, all human beings have needs and stresses. This senior class who worked together and played together through four years certainly got to know each others failings; but they also came to know what to love and respect in others and themselves. If at the end of senior year this group of women can look at themselves and their classmates and say that they were worthy of this love and respect and of the sacrifices of many people, then those lives have been lived well in the span of four years.

Many claim it is the spirit and enthusiasm which makes a team. If such is the case-we must be very spirited. However-more important-there seems to be a sense of pride sometimes bad but usually good. The pride of knowing one can win if one tries as hard as possible even if the score says otherwise.

The greatest example of this was seen this year in a senior. There is a bitter sense of disappointment which goes with losing something you hold very dear. To this man football was a fantastic game he enjoyed immensely.

Involved in a car accident-he lived, but he couldn't play football. This doesn't mean he didn't try, he did and he tried hard. This kind of determination is seen throughout our sports department, be the game golf, tennis, basketball, track, or even football.

Marge,
You're a really neat sophmore and you'll be a fantastic junior. Despite the fact that you didn't make the team, I think you're really good on basketball. I enjoyed having you in algebra & hope we're in geometry together next year.
Love

football 1971

In late July Coach Galley sent out a letter. In it was the conditioning program to be started in order to get in shape for the upcoming football season. On Friday November 5, a team of Junior Ravens finished training and also a successful football season of six wins and three losses.

These are two simple facts. To them the loyal Raven fan adds the memory of a black and gold football team, always confident, often coming from behind to win a game or lose by a single point.

To these two recorded facts, the members of the team add memories of practice, windsprints and the showers; and the heat, dust and tires; the bus rides, butterflies and the halftime discussions. All of these things meant something to the team. It took a lot of guts to stick it out the entire season, but they did and produced a winning team.

The team will also remember what it meant to be humble. The work was shown enstilled this into them. Along with the bruises, the cuts and the leg cramps came the courage to stick it out and give it that last try which each one of them will remember individually.

Ravens prepare for upcoming season

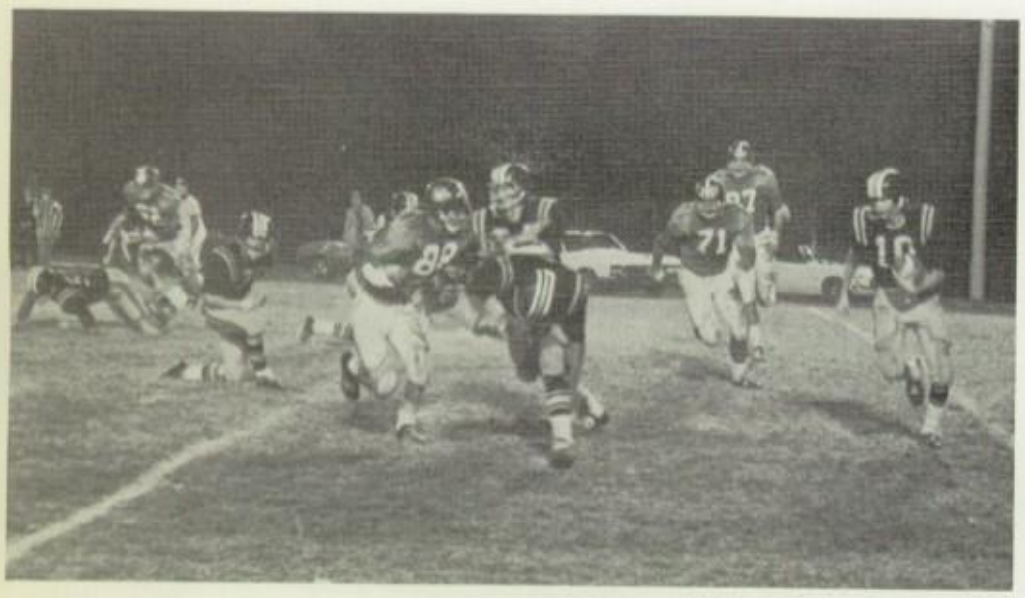
Join the ranks men. (Ed Lutz)

The 1971 Junior Ravens opened the season against one of the top teams in the state, the St. Joseph Bluestreaks of Shawnee. St. Joe scored on the first play from scrimmage on a 60 yard keeper by their quarterback Paul Bower. After this the Ravens calmed down and Greg Wyatt scored on a keeper and the Ravens led at half 12-7.

In the second half the Bluestreaks scored twice to the Ravens none and came out on top 21-12.

Sabetha was next on the Ravens schedule and they proved to be the victim of the Ravens powerful running attack and fell by the wayside 7-0. Greg Wyatt again scored on a reverse in the third quarter as the Ravens defense held the Bluejays scoreless.



John Siebenmorgen throws a block against Hayden.

Maur Hill going into the third game with a record of 1-1 played in a steady rain and defeated the Savannah Savages by a score of 18-7. John Siebenmorgen, Kevin Brungardt and Willie Lopez scored for the Ravens as a strong defense held the Savages scoreless after they had scored first.

Bishop LeBlond came to Atchison hoping to defeat the highly touted Ravens but couldn't stop the Birds and they went back to St. Joe soundly defeated 23-8. Kevin Van Dyke kicked a field goal to put the Ravens on top 3-0 but LeBlond came back and scored a TD and a two point conversion. The Ravens started moving on offense scoring two more times in the second half and came up with a 3-1 record.

(Upper left) Macan opened the hole as Carrigan drives for an extra yard.

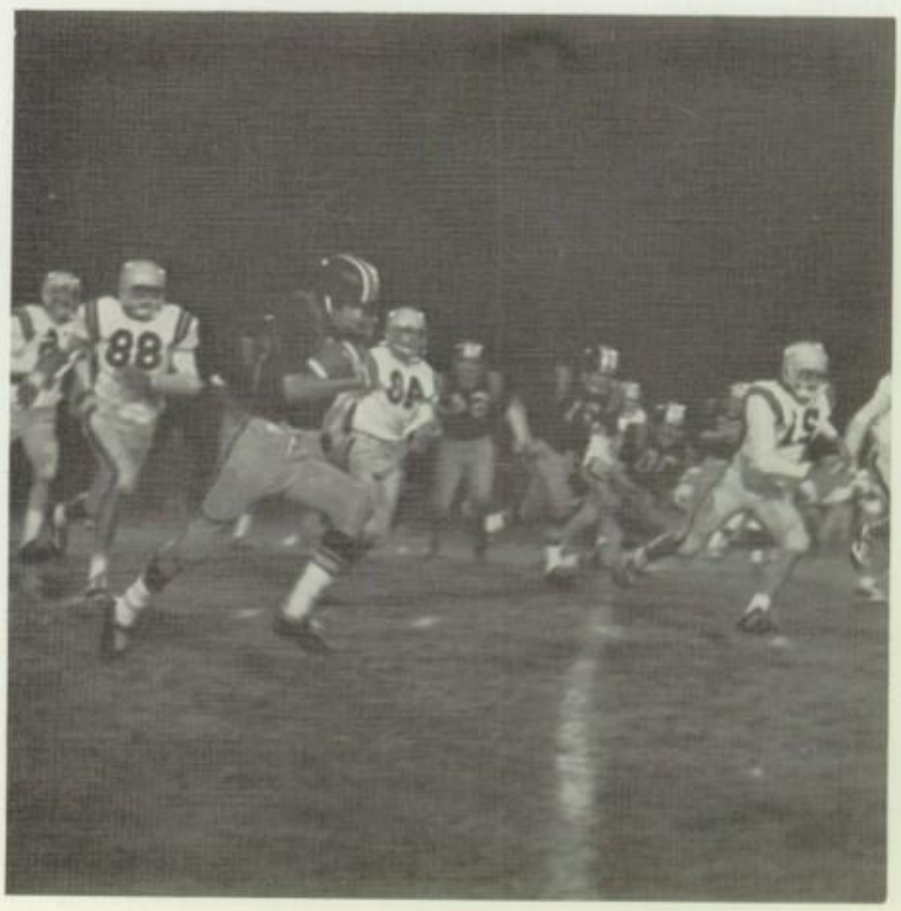
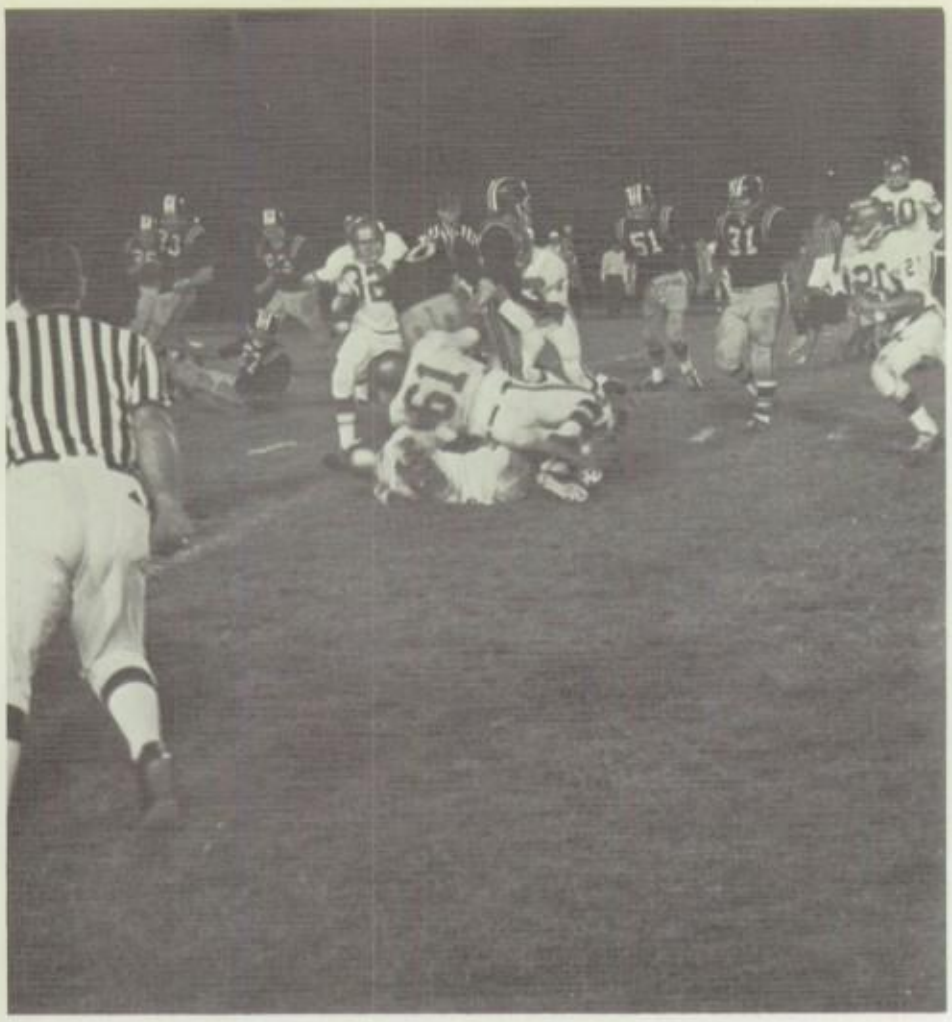
Undefeated Mission Valley was next on Maur Hill's lineup. The Ravens spoiled the Vikings string of wins by whipping them 22-6. Again the Ravens came from behind to win the second half of the ball game.

Homecoming brought on the Hayden Wildcats of Topeka. Maur Hill went in at half time leading the powerful Wildcats 14-7. In the second half Hayden blocked a third down punt and raced into the end zone then added a twopoint conversion and led 15-14.

The determined Ravens were not to be denied as on the next series of plays Robert Ross caught a Charley Carrigan pass and sprinted 70 yards to paydirt. A powerful rushing game by the Wildcats brought them victory as they scored with two minutes left in the game and the Ravens had their second loss 22-21.





He's not down yet! (Kevin Brungardt)

Maur Hill After losing a heartbreaker to Hayden bounced back against arch-rival Immaculata of Leavenworth. The Ravens won by a score of 14-6. Kevin Brungardt and Willie Lopez scored touchdowns with Dave Rindom scoring two points after touchdown.

Promising to be an exciting game Maur Hill went to Effingham to play the Tigers on a muddy field. On the opening kickoff Tom Shriwise recovered an Effingham fumble and three plays later John Siebenmorgen took it over and the Ravens had a quick 6-0 lead. It wasn't until the final two minutes of the game that the Tigers could score and adding a two point conversion led 8-6. Charley Carrigan put his arm to work and got the Ravens to the Tiger three yard line with two seconds left. A hesitated call by the official declared Kevin Van Dyke's field goal attempt no good and the heartbroken Ravens had absorbed their third loss.

Twelve seniors played their last game under the Junior Raven banner at Maryville in the frigid cold. Maur Hill wound up with a record of 6-3 by whipping the Spoofhounds 14-8. The 1971 Junior Ravens scored 137 points to the opponents 86, a successful season which will be remembered.

Margie,
Remember all the good times we've had together. We'll never get this or you!
Love always

junior varsity

The purpose of the Junior Varsity is to develop the younger player for the day when he becomes a varsity player. It is true that the record of this years B-team was not too admirable but the knowledge and experience gained through the year will undoubtedly aid the varsity teams in future years here in Raven Country.

For the second consecutive year, Mr. Andra produced a successful track team. This is shown by the fact of previous school records being broken. This year Maur Hill sent their 880 and Medley Relay teams to the state only to be disqualified by circumstances beyond their control. But even though this hardship persisted, hard work and extra drive paid off for the track team.

The word underclassmen may be misleading, it seems to indicate that they are somewhat less than something else. The Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors have proven themselves to be proud and spirited individuals.

Always, one is referred to the proud tradition of the past here at Maur Hill and at Mount Saint Scholastica. I call for an end to this, let us forget the past as a means of comparison and rather look to the future.

Let's allow these young men and women to make up their own classes, as surely the class of "72" has done. Lets allow the individual class to develop free of the hinderances of the past. They must create their own form of Maur Hill and Mount Saint Scholastica for surely theirs is tomorrow, the sun may shine or fade but this is indeed a school of the students, and not students for the school.

UNDERCLASSMEN

juniors

The juniors displayed their leadership this year by their participation in sports. Academically they were outstanding. Working together with their moderator and the Mount they proved their efforts successful as shown by the Junior-Senior prom. With a class like this they should be well equipped and prepared to take over next years feats.

The returning students found that this year tried their ability in all fields of study. They found what class unity is and held it throughout the year.

In the beginning of last year we were thought of as just another class, but as the year advanced the phrase - class of 74 - seemed to echo throughout the school. This year the phrase has developed from an echo to a loud shout.

The class of 74 is known for their spirit and overall willingness to help when ever the need may arise. They have not achieved these goals alone, but through the help of so many people who took an interest and helped them through their trials and tribulations.

The class shows a tremendous amount of leadership and an eagerness to drive on to bigger things and achieve new goals for the future years.

The freshman came to Maur Hill unprepared for those things they would face through the year. This makes the Freshman year the most challenging one of the four. Each individual had to adjust to a totally new social environment. The class as a whole then must seek unity, harmony, and spirit.

All of these things were achieved by the Freshman class and the individuals themselves were one step closer in preparation for their manhood.

freshmen

Starting the freshman year is one of the hardest tasks an incoming high school student has to face. Being no exception to the rule, the class of "75" has quickly learned to adjust to life at the Mount.

New experiences awaited the freshman as they learned the value of spirit and acquired respect for upperclassmen. Big sisters, lockers, scaling the steps to gym class, language labs, extra-curricular activities, spirit week and class day have all become a new part of their way of life at the Mount.

The determination and drive of the class of "75" will keep the fire of their spirit blazing brightly all through their high school years.

Freshman reach for higher goals.

Freshman girls experience Christmas Banquet.

Exactly one year ago a prediction was made which said, "Now that Maur Hill and the Mount have joined together on the same campus, social relations have improved and will continue to improve as the years go by."

Only now can we realize the truth of this prediction. Social relations have improved, mainly because after two years we now grow more accustomed to walking up or down the stairs connecting our schools. After co-institutionalization we are becoming more united, both schools have worked together more often and will continue to each bear their share of the load. Joint Stuco efforts, like Spirit Week, show this willingness to work together, and show what great rewards this work can reap. In looking forward in the years to come we can anticipate unity in the future as social relations will continue to improve as the years go by.

Margie,
Well another year for the books. It was a pretty good year and I had a lot of fun. You a cute kid. Stay sweet Keep Smiling Good Luck

spirit week

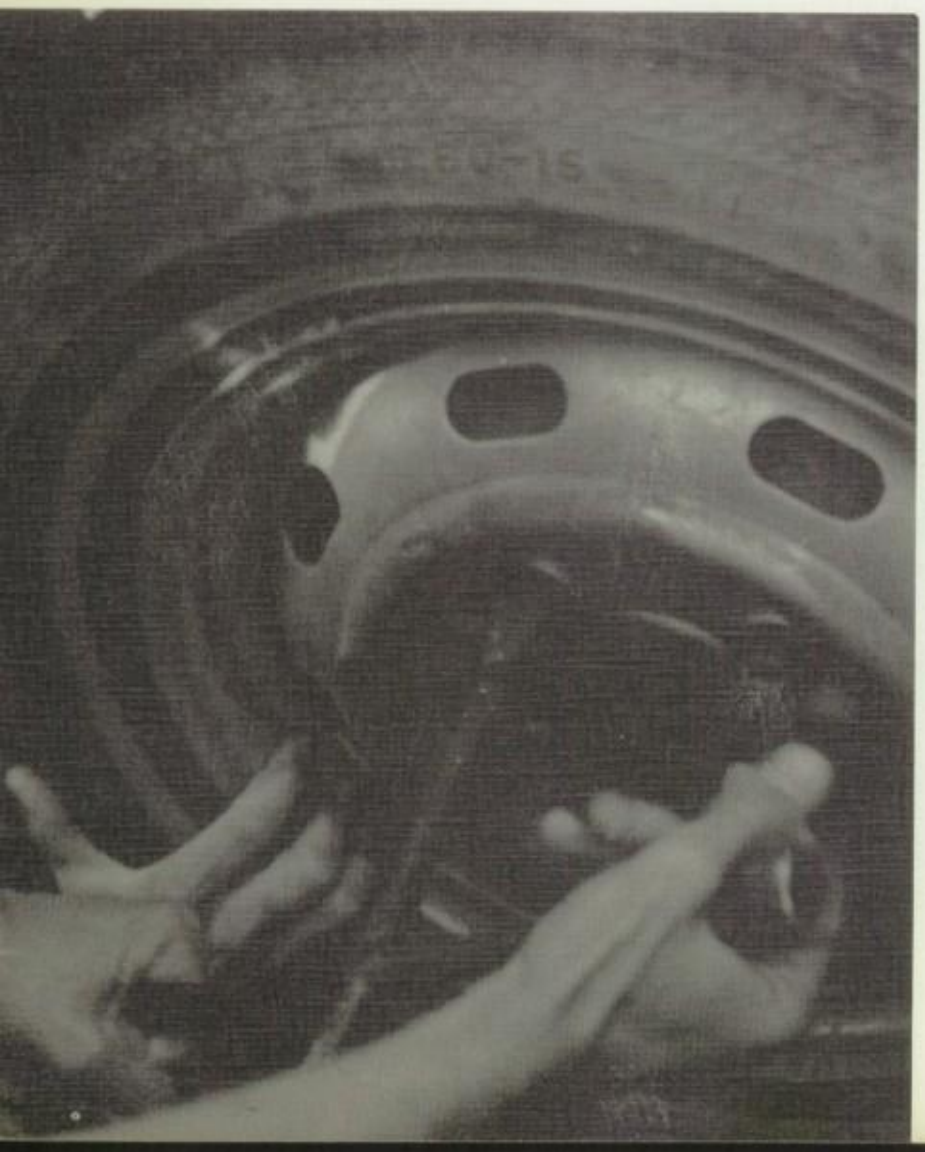
One of the tougher courses offered in our curriculum.



The week preceeding Homecoming this year was christened "Spirit Week". A new innovation by the joint Student Councils, Spirit Week headquartered in the old bandroom. Here streamers, banners and signs announced pride in "Black and Gold." Shirts, pennants, and buttons proclaiming such messages as "1971 Year of the Raven" and "We Are Mounties, We Are Proud" were sold here.

With points being awarded for buttons bought and first place finishes by classes the senior class jumped to an early lead. They accomplished this by cramming 29 of their classmates in an old car. The number assured them of victory in this event and a start of 50 points. The seniors also won the tire change the following day. The sophomores strongly challenged the seniors by winning the car push and buying the most buttons. However Mark Sonnemoser wrapped up a certain victory for the seniors when he unwrapped the sexiest legs on campus.

Spirit Week promoted school spirit not only throughout the week but united both schools with mass spirit the night of the game.

Sophomores pack in 27 but can't match the seniors 29.

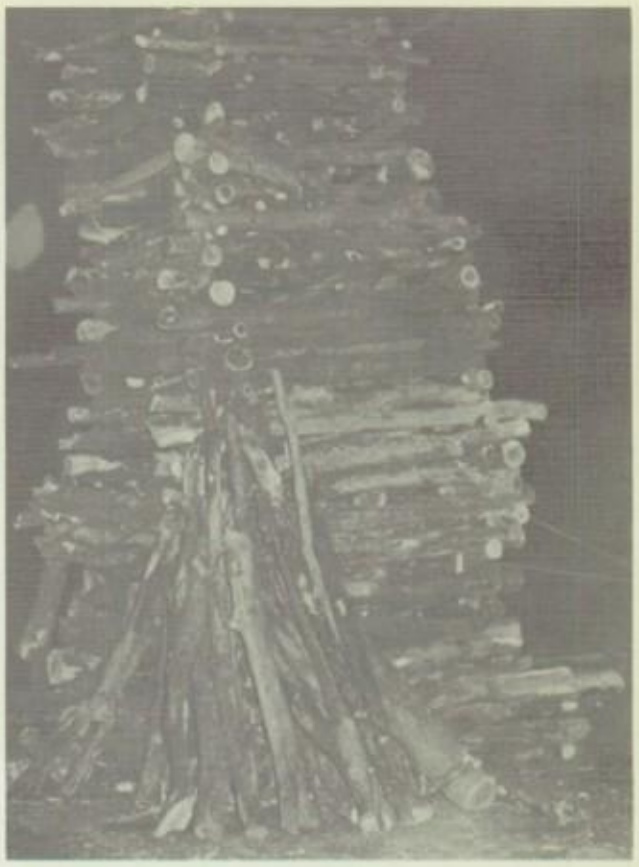
Extremely dry fall weather forced the annual bonfire to be burnt in the incinerator.



The bonfire still stands like the Rock of Gibraltar after repeated attempts to pull the structure down.

bonfire

The annual Homecoming chore of the Sophomores is the building of the bonfire. The Class of '74 worked hard in their effort of raising the traditional pile of logs. But because of extremely dry weather the danger of the fire spreading was increased, thus preventing the open burning of the bonfire. Mr. Perkins repeatedly tried to pull the bonfire down but the workmanship was so strong he was unable to accomplish this. A Hayden player was burned in effigy in the incinerator, however the stack of logs was not set fire until after a light shower lessened the threat of the fire spreading. This burning was before the Effingham game.

King Weasel and his court.

The fourth annual Sadie Hawkins Dance proved to be as successful as the dances in previous years. Bib overalls, longjohns, strawhats, and Sunday duds were pulled on to make a night of it. The Mount Stuco organized the festivities held in the old gym. The music was supplied by Marble Kake. In a solemn ceremony Edward Lutz was crowned King Weasel IV, by having a bucket of shaving cream placed on his head. The imperial lathering was preceeded by a skit presented by Mount students.

The Mount team checks to see if it has an argument against a particular case.

Margie,

At this moment, the hall is empty, but any moment I expect to see you come tearing through, trying to catch one of those "good-looking guys". No matter what we say, we'd probably all pass away without "Maui Hill" - And even though we don't like to ~~~~ admit it, the guys are good-looking too. (Wish I could say that!) But to get serious, I'm sincerely glad I met you. I'll never forget our "short little ride", that time we went horseback hiking. Every time I see a horse, I start to get sore & walk bow-legged! You always seem to brighten things up & you care so much about things that are important to you, it makes me feel ashamed! Your determination & spirit keep me in awe. They play a big part in the success of "74" and I hope that "75" will gain a few like you. Thanks for keeping "M.A." in line when I couldn't - you're a very great influence on her & I'm happy to know she has such a good friend.

See you at C[illegible]

Love,

Regina

This section is most probably the least read but definitely the most important. The yearbook staff kindly asks you to pay your respects to the generous businessmen who purchased advertisements. Without such enthusiasm this book would not have been possible.

As you read over the different business represented in this section you will recall memories which you will forever cherish. Even though there were no high classes social activities we all found something exciting to do. For this great service we wish to extend our thanks again to the people of Atchison.

Margie,

Well it's been a great year! Just think next year I'll be a senior. But don't you dare think that just because Teddy won't be going to Main Hill next year that you won't hear anything about him. You'll hear more about him next than you ever have. You're really a neat person sometimes. I hope this year won't even compare to what next year will be like. Oh yes, I can't resist saying something about Timothy Wayne Hess. I know he's really the only one you like. You like him as much as I like Teddy. If you ever try to forget me just remember Teddy Hager and you just won't be able to forget me. I hope you won't come back next year but I know my luck is bad so I'll see ya next year I guess.
